

'Dime' Chains Hit Number Game; 'Dollar' Letters Are Investigated

While Atlanta postal inspectors were launching an investigation of some of the larger "chain letter" schemes now sweeping the city, "number game" operators here were reported to be seriously disturbed over the inroads made into their lucrative business by the "dime" chains.

ing, where literally hundreds of men and women workers wage five cents or a dime daily in hopes of "hitting the bag," it is reported that such bets have dropped almost to zero.

Instead, the workers are saving their dimes to put in chain letter envelopes in hopes of obtaining a return of $1,525 on a 10-cent investment. These odds are much higher than those offered by the number racketeers, and the players have decidedly more chance of cashing in on the chains than they do on the "bug."

The dime chains have penetrated every office building in the city, with disastrous results to the number operators. Only the negroes of Atlanta are continuing as "bug" fans and even some of those are taking up the chain letter scheme, according to reports.

One of the dollar chains being investigated by the postoffice is known as the Square Shooter Club. A resident of south Georgia, whose name is being withheld by the postoffice department, informed the inspectors that he had been asked to join the Square Shooter Club, which intended to circulate among college students.

The principle of the dollar chain is the same as those of the dime chain, but postal inspectors believe that it is the intention of a select group to "get in on the ground floor," leaving late comers to hold the bag. The chain letter idea is a violation of the postal laws, and it is probable that even persons participating in the dime chains could be prosecuted, Inspector Cole said yesterday. It is considered doubtful, however, if any action will be taken against persons taking part in them.

The postoffice department believes, however, that racketeers are attempting to "muscle in" on the easy money that apparently is floating about by starting the dollar chains. The investigations now under way will be carried on vigorously, Mr. Cole said.

'GIVE THE CREDIT' CLUB PLANS GEORGIA DRIVE

Launching a campaign designed to establish a "Give the Credit" club in every county in the state, officers of the "Give the Credit" Club in Georgia, formed at a meeting last week in Manchester, held their first meeting yesterday afternoon at the Wincoff hotel.

The "Give the Credit" Club movement was launched in Manchester, N. H., last Thursday by citizens of the county, who were aroused by the recent attack by Governor Eugene Talmadge upon the president.

Within three days more than 1,000 members were enrolled in the organization and present plans provide for a club in each of Georgia's 150 counties.

Attending the Atlanta meeting were Colonel W. E. Smith, of Manchester, president; J. G. Gay, of Gresham, N. H., secretary; and Dr. Neal Kitchen, of Warm Springs, N. H., vice president. Hoke Peters, of Manchester, secretary, and Harvey Kennerly, of Barnstable, Mass., treasurer, also attended. J. Frank Hatchett, the third vice president, was unable to be present because of legal business.

The first official act of the officers was to appoint Mrs. W. R. Simpson, of Atlanta, co-chairman of the executive committee. Mrs. Simpson is one of the most prominent democratic women in Georgia. She is a former member of the Georgia democratic executive committee, of the fifth district executive committee, a co-organizer of the Roosevelt campaign committee in 1932, and a Georgia delegate to the last national democratic convention in Chicago. She had the honor of casting Georgia's vote on the ballot which made Franklin Delano Roosevelt the democratic nominee for president.

It was decided at yesterday's session to appoint a chairman and co-chairman in each of the 52 senatorial districts in Georgia. These will in turn name a chairman and co-chairman for each county, according to Colonel Smith.

"Telegrams and letters are coming in almost hourly inquiring about the formation of 'Give the Credit' Clubs in various parts of Georgia," Colonel Smith declared. "Likewise, we have received numerous letters from outside the state commending the movement."

Bank Robber Killed, 1 Shot Fleeing Police

BRISCON, Texas, May 6.—(P)—Officers killed one robber and wounded another today as they ran from the First State bank. The slain man was identified as Austin Hawkins, 33, paroled from the Texas prison August 29, 1933. The wounded man was unidentified.

Sheriff Guy Morgan, of Jackboro, and a posse reached the bank shortly before daylight. Deciding to call upon the men to surrender, the officers told the telephone operator to call the bank and notify the robbers that they were surrounded. When the telephone rang, the men dashed out of the bank door, firing wildly. Officers then felled them with gunfire.

POPULAR HOTEL CLERK, JOHN LEE GRAY, PASSES

John Lee Gray, 40, chief clerk at the Robert Fulton hotel for the past five years and one of the best known hotel men in the state, died unexpectedly at his home, 87 Harris street, N. W., yesterday morning, presumably a victim of heart disease.

Mr. Gray had been in the hotel business since the World War. He entered that profession at his home in Anderson, S. C., with the Baron & Wilson chain of hotels. A short time later he came to Atlanta. He became affiliated with the Robert Fulton in 1930.

A veteran of the World War, Mr. Gray served more than a year in France. He was a member of the American Legion and took an active interest in veterans' affairs.

Surviving are his wife, his mother, Mrs. James P. Gray, of Anderson; four brothers, James C., of Atlanta; T. Frank, of Greenville, S. C.; and J. P. and L. L. Gray, of Anderson; and two sisters, Mary and Irene Gray, of Anderson.

The body was sent to Anderson for interment.

U. S. ALCOHOL TAX UNIT ACTIVE DURING APRIL

Despite the handicap of having to spend a considerable portion of April testifying at court hearings, investigators for the Alcohol Tax Unit raided 102 Georgia stills during the month, destroyed 5,294 gallons of corn liquor and arrested 239 men.

Records in the office of R. E. Tuttle, district supervisor of the tax unit, show while seizures of liquor and the number of stills raided were below average, the number of men arrested was above any previous month this year. The investigators made 231 arrests in Georgia during March.

HUGH DORSEY CHARGES MAY-JUNE GRAND JURY

New Body Told of Wide Latitude Granted Under Laws of State.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey, sworn in last week as a new judge of superior court following the merger with city court, charged the May-June grand jury yesterday. George A. Campbell, vice president of Atlanta Title and Trust Company was named foreman of the new jury and Fred P. Gibbs, of 963 Williamsburg road, was made secretary. W. B. Sattell, of Duwoody, will serve as assistant secretary.

Judge Dorsey after charging the jury as to its routine duties, expressed hope for certain changes in criminal procedure, among them being the proposed change by which misdemeanors or cases may be placed on trial by accusation of the solicitor-general, rather than by indictment. This system, he pointed out, would simplify and expedite the work of the courts.

The court also reminded the new jurors that the latitude of the inquisitorial body is wide and not confined to matters suggested by the court or the solicitor-general.

Other members of the new grand jury are: G. B. Hamrick, Duwoody; Tyler Eason, 1001 Blue Ridge avenue, vice president of Camp and Eason, Inc.; J. R. Smith, Palmetto; Z. A. Tate, 313 Jefferson avenue, salesman; Henry C. Wing, Dunwoody; R. E. House, 970 North Highland avenue, salesman; C. H. Cannon, 43 W. 10th avenue, manager, Volunteer State Life Insurance Company; J. A. McCoy, 832 White street, machinist; G. E. Madrox, Alpharetta; L. N. Thompson, Alpharetta; E. G. Halley, 507 Seventh street, clerk; G. E. Herndon, Fairburn; Martin L. Johnson, 32 Hunt-nun road, of McCord-Johnson Motor Company; C. C. Edensfield, 603 Cumberland road, office manager; M. C. Dorach, 630 Holderness street, department superintendent, Swift & Company; W. P. Crenshaw, 1053 Rosewood drive; E. S. Cook, 91 Atlanta avenue, manager, Producers Operating Exchange; J. M. Martin, Alpharetta; P. Coffey, 1650 South Gordon street, assistant manager, Swift & Company; M. L. Claxton, 129 Huntington road, treasurer, Marion Harper Company.

Reinforcements Asked In Manila Disorders

MANILA, P. I., May 6.—(P)—Fearing further disorders following last week's uprising of the sakdalists, which cost 80 lives, Governor Juan Calles, of Laguna province, today asked the Philippine constabulary for reinforcements. There were other indications the sakdalists still were threatening to strike again.

A dispatch to Lavanguardia said sakdal extremists were trying to seize firearms to attack the town of Mairan, in Tamaras province, where one man was killed and two women wounded Saturday.

Manila policemen were armed with rifles, despite the assurance of Acting Governor General Joseph R. Hayden there was "no likelihood of further disorder." Insistent rumors here said the sakdalists were mobilizing in the hills within 30 miles of Manila for further attacks.

GEORGIA HIGH SCHOOLS WILL GRADUATE 18,000

2,000 More Diplomas Needed This Year Than in 1934.

Nearly 18,000 boys and girls in Georgia will receive high school diplomas this spring in comparison with approximately 16,000 graduates last year, it was announced yesterday by Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of education.

He produced figures showing about 16,000 girls and boys will finish in white schools and approximately 1,800 in negro schools. "Graduates in the negro schools will increase about 50 per cent this year over 1934," he said. Last year 1,200 received diplomas from negro schools.

White graduates totaled 14,000, showing a 15 per cent increase in 1935.

There are 400 accredited high schools in the state and three of them have the twelfth grade, which allows graduates in most instances to enter the second year in colleges and universities. These are at Macon, Savannah and Atlanta.

"FELT MISERABLE MOST OF THE TIME"

Then Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Checked Her Constipation*

Read Mrs. Marsden's letter: "I have been a subject of constipation" for the last 11 years. I felt miserable and irritable most of the time. My husband is a manager of a chain store. He said 'Why don't you try Kellogg's ALL-BRAN?'

"ALL-BRAN helped me right away. I have taken it now for the past 5 months, and I am as regular as a clock. My health is fine, and I am full of pep."—Mrs. Charles Marsden, 681 Merrick St., Detroit, Mich.

*Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" in meals.

ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid regular habits. It also supplies vitamin B and iron.

The "bulk" of ALL-BRAN is more effective than the "bulk" in fruits and vegetables, as it does not break down within the body. Two table-spoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not corrected this way, see your doctor.

Isn't this food much pleasanter and safer than risking patent medicines? Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Showers and Warmer Predicted for Today

More showers, coupled with the highest temperatures of the year, are forecast for today by George W. Mindling, local meteorologist.

"Showers are on the bill for Tuesday and the mercury will climb to 88 degrees in the afternoon," Mr. Mindling said. "The previous high mark for 1935 was 86 degrees, registered on two occasions."

Atlanta experienced a "five-minute" shower of unusual intensity yesterday afternoon. Rainfall of .25 inch was recorded at the weather bureau during the period.

STATE PUTS $40,254 INTO INSURANCE FUND

Georgia's own sinking fund insuring state-owned property against fire loss has started off at $40,254 with only one loss of $180 in six months.

The loss was on a potato house at the State Teachers and Agricultural College, at Forsyth, records in the office of Carlton Mobley, the governor's executive secretary, show.

Premiums that otherwise would have been paid out to insurance companies for fire protection are building up the state's insurance fund by executive order from Governor Talmadge.

This fund is to be boosted annually in the amount of $41,067.68, based on premiums on 50 per cent of the value of the state property as follows:

State board of control, for eleemosynary institutions, $14,750.98; board of censors, for the University System of Georgia, $24,260.68; executive department, for capitol property and the governor's mansion, $1,536.31; prison commission, $719.71.

Less than $1,000 is yet to be paid in to the state treasury, where the sinking fund is maintained.

George B. Hamilton, state treasurer said the fund will be built up annually until it reaches an amount equivalent to 50 per cent of the property value. When a loss is sustained, premiums will again be added to sustain the total reserve fund.

The governor issued an executive order creating the state fund in January instead of renewing $8,216,534 in policies with insurance companies when the contracts expired. He said the cost to the state for fire insurance in 10 years would exceed the loss by $500,000.

White Jackets, Coats Over Dresses Are Shown Extensively for Summer

NEW YORK, May 6.—(AP)—White jackets or coats over dark dresses—black, navy blue, or dark prints—are being shown extensively for summer wear.

The combination has the advantage of looking less wilted than all-light colors in the dog days, and with the proper accessories it is sophisticated.

For daytime, one designer has a short jacket of rough white cotton, with rounded edges. It is worn with a black dress trimmed at the neck with a cluster of white flowers, a black belt, and white hat with black band and pearl little dotted black veil.

White pique is also being used for these separate jackets, to be worn with black dresses. A pale blue linen jacket with navy blue dress is a variation of this idea.

An attractive long white coat, made with loose sleeves and buttons at the neck has wide revers as a collar. It is tied in place by a dark belt and

Nationalists, Reds Gain in French Poll

PARIS, May 6.—(AP)—The nationalists and communists both appeared today to have gained slightly in yesterday's municipal elections, the communists at the expense of the socialists.

A definite indication of France's political lineup, however, awaited next Sunday's runoff elections, but the government of Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin gained approval on the basis of the returns.

The premier and all cabinet members retained their municipal posts. Flandin was re-elected mayor of his home town of D'Arcy Sur Cure by a vote of 98 to 11. Pierre Laval, foreign minister, was re-elected to the municipal council of Aubervilliers by a large majority.

Placing of employees in permanent New Deal agencies under civil service, as well as all first, second and third-class postmasters, was commended yesterday by Harry B. Mitchell, president of the civil service, who addressed members of the Georgia League of Women Voters at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Mr. Mitchell explained the workings of the civil service to the women voters. He was introduced by District Attorney Lawrence S. Camp.

The civil service head commended Congressman Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, chairman of the house civil service committee, who has introduced bills in congress that would put employees of permanent New Deal agencies and also three classes of postmasters under civil service.

Mr. Mitchell said the commission favors making appointment of approximately 190,000 of those now in executive governmental positions, not under civil service, under the merit system of the service. Most of these positions are in New Deal agencies, such as NRA, AAA, RFC, etc., but a few are in the foreign service and in investigating positions in the Department of Justice.

Memphis Carnival Postponed by Rain

MEMPHIS, Tenn., May 6.—(AP)—Rain caused a postponement today of the formal opening of the "south's greatest party."

A steady downpour made conditions insipid for King Cotton and his fair queen to make the trip up the Mississippi river in their royal barge, and just as unsatisfactory for the royal parade. These ceremonies will be held tomorrow.

Other events, however, went through on schedule as King Cotton, the fleecy staple of the southland, became the ruler of a magic land of make-believe for Memphis' fifth annual cotton carnival—a week of fun and frolic.

Electrolux Sales Campaign Meets Instant Success Here

Sales of Gas-Operated and Kerosene Refrigerators Mounts at Sterchi's.

The first day's results from the Electrolux Refrigerator sales campaign begun Monday by Sterchi Brothers Stores, 116 Whitehall street, and the Atlanta Gas Light Company met with unusual success. The many orders taken for the gas-operated refrigerators indicated the great desire of Atlanta home-owners for a refrigerator that is absolutely silent, with no moving parts.

Electrolux, the gas-operated refrigerator which is sold exclusively in Atlanta by these dealers, adds beauty of cabinet design to its many other advantages this year. The cabinet was designed by hundreds of American women who were consulted in its construction. Everyone is familiar with the mechanical advantages of the Electrolux. A tiny gas flame takes the place of all moving parts, assuring the owner of silent operation and positive assurance that he will never receive a bill due to depreciation of moving parts. The new models are air-cooled. Certified tests have shown that Electrolux operates for as little as 3 cents a day.

The number of kerosene-operated Electrolux sold shows phenomenal gains over the number sold for the same period last year. This type, which is offered in various sizes, was designed for rural homes. Perfect city refrigeration is now possible for every home, no matter how remote.

A feature of the present campaign being conducted by Sterchi's and the Gas Company is a new budget plan which makes possession of any Electrolux conveniently easy.

Other Sterchi stores and Gas Company offices throughout Georgia are also exclusive dealers for Electrolux Refrigerators. They, too, are taking part in the present campaign.—(adv.)

106 Mass. Mills Closed in 14 Years

BOSTON, Mass., May 6.—(P)—One hundred and six cotton textile mills in Massachusetts, employing 22,819 persons, went out of existence between 1921 and 1934, the state department of labor and industries announced tonight.

Thirteen of these mills were reopened later and operated by other companies. The wage earners engaged by the reopened mills were not computed in the number originally thrown out of work, the report said.

"The complete records for 1934 are not yet available," the report said, "but preliminary tabulations show that there was some increase in employment in the cotton manufacturing industry in Massachusetts in 1934 over 1933."

Colonists Reach Alaska With Hospitals Ready

SEWARD, Alaska, May 6.—(P)—The government's great band of colonists came to the promised land today—and seemed likely to be stricken with measles.

The Matanuska Valley emigrants, coming to the land of "milk and honey," in the United States army transport St. Mihiel, were preceded by conflicting reports, one that measles had broken out, another that some of the colonists had diphtheria. The hospital here was advised to prepare for six patients.

The St. Mihiel, due here at 8 p. m., was prevented from docking by the government motorship North Star, which was discharging the cargo of colonists, a hardy band of farmers, their wives and families,

Criminals Prefer Prison To 'G-Heat,' Says Judge

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 6.—(P)—Judge Arthur D. Wood, Washington, president of the American Parole Association, told the second annual central states parole conference today that the confirmed criminal now preferred jail to being hunted by federal agents. The conference was opening a four-day session here.

"The day when heroes were made of the racketeering crowd is gone," Judge Wood said, "and there is a new type of hero. When President Roosevelt signed the anti-crime bill he ironed-gloved the Department of Justice and for the first time agents were able to meet the gangsters on their own terms."

Judge Wood asserted that 400,000 persons who live by handiwork were well under way to being routed by the crime drive. He upheld the parole method for convicts, saying it "has not failed."

STYLE INFLUENCES CORRECT EYEWEAR

Frames and Shapes of Lenses Enhance One's Appearance.

No picture is considered completely finished until it has a suitable frame and much time and thought are given by heads of art galleries to the subject of proper framing of pictures.

It is shown by the number of paintings made of it that the human face is considered by artists to be the greatest picture subject of all, and nowadays, with all the emphasis that is placed on appearance, great study is given to presenting the actual human face in its most advantageous aspects.

Not the least important is the attractive and artistic framing of the face for the lenses in eye-glasses. The time has come when women as well as men have accepted eye-glasses as "the proper thing" (there is even a likelihood that women who do not particularly need glasses will be wearing Oxford's soon just to be in style) and, thanks to the artistic skill of designers, frames and shapes of lenses are now used that do a great deal to enhance the appearance of eye-glass wearers.

The art of framing the wonderful picture of the eyes has been brought to a high degree of perfection by A. K. Hawkes Co., 67 Whitehall St., Atlanta, as evidenced by the thousands of people who go to them for correct eyewear, from standpoint of both vision and style.—(adv.)

AUTO STRIKERS' VOTE SET FOR WEDNESDAY

Government Aids Set Up Machinery To Decide Toledo Dispute.

DETROIT, May 6.—(P)—Machinery was being set up tonight for a government-supervised referendum Wednesday among employees of the closed Toledo Chevrolet plant expected by company officials to speed the opening of approximately a score of automobile body and assembly units and re-employment for 33,000 men.

The voting, which will be by 2,300 workers in the Toledo plant closed April 23 when a group of A. F. of L.

workers went on strike, will be on acceptance or rejection of a company offer of a 5 per cent wage increase, adjustment of out-of-balance rates and other concessions.

Edward F. McGrady, assistant United States secretary of labor, and Thomas J. Williams, federal labor mediator, spent most of today in Toledo, inspecting pay rolls to determine those eligible to vote and otherwise arranging for taking the poll. The task of setting up the election machinery proved somewhat greater than the two federal officials expected.

William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors Corporation, whose units employed most of the men affected by the shutdowns, expressed confidence tonight that the company's plan would be accepted by the employees. He said, however, that the proposal was an emergency measure and that there was nothing in it "that commits the company to further negotiations."

HIGH COURT APPEAL PLANNED FOR DR. DEAN

JACKSON, Miss., May 6.—(P)—The groundwork was laid here today to carry the famous case of Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, Greenwood, Miss., child specialist under life sentence for the poison highball slaying of her one-time clinical associate, Dr. John Preston Kennedy, to the supreme court of the United States.

Dr. Dean's attorneys filed in the Mississippi supreme court a supplementary suggestion of error to that tribunal's affirmation of the child specialist's conviction and sentence, challenging the court's authority to affirm a criminal sentence by an evenly split vote.

The supreme court recently affirmed the life sentence by a 3-to-3 vote. The Mississippi court is composed of six justices, and frequently has affirmed criminal cases by split division.

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 7, 1935.

LINING UP THE INTANGIBLES

Through the efforts of the city tax assessors and the movement launched by a group of leading Atlanta citizens headed by Thomas K. Glenn, the intangible property listed on the tax books of the city is steadily growing.

Heretofore only a fractional part of the total amount of this type of property held in Atlanta has been returned for taxation, the tax burden being almost entirely carried by real estate. In order that this inequitable condition might be rectified, and to meet the need of the municipal government for increased revenues, tax authorities of Atlanta, Fulton and DeKalb counties have agreed to waive back taxes and to assess intangibles on a reasonable basis.

These concessions are to hold good only until May 15, after which time assessments will be made at full value not only for this year but for the past seven years.

As pointed out by Mr. Glenn, intangible property has been taxed in Georgia in the past at full market value—which meant that the taxes on much of it would be greater than the revenue brought in. As a result this type of property has either been put in hiding or else moved to other states where more reasonable rates of assessment prevail.

The great majority of the owners of intangibles are willing to pay taxes on them under the new law assessments and the many millions of dollars in cash, stocks and bonds held by Atlantans can now be expected to pay fair taxes into the treasuries of the local governments.

Until May 15 the placing of this property on the tax books will be by voluntary action of the owners, but after that date a determined drive will be made to unearth any that is still in hiding.

In view of the heavy penalties for failure to report such property, many millions will undoubtedly be put on the tax books during the next nine days. While a material increase in such returns has already taken place, the major part of the estimated $100,000,000 in stocks and bonds and $75,000,000 in cash is still to be turned in for taxation.

Good citizenship and obvious business reasons demand that the property that has been paying taxes in other states, and that which has been kept in hiding, should be made to bear its fair share of the tax burden.

NEEDLESS EXCITEMENT

Undoubtedly Representative Plumley, of Vermont, is correct in his analysis of the controversy over the proposal to erect an American air base near the Great Lakes as a "tempest in a teapot."

It is unfortunate that high-ranking officers of the army should have given ill-judged testimony before the house military committee and that these statements should have been made public, but even so there is no ground for fear that the century-long amity and understanding between Canada and the United States is threatened.

Manifestly a 3,000-mile international boundary cannot be fortified from end to end and there would be no purpose in attempting to protect it by the erection of an air base at one point. Further, if any such desire existed such a base would be of practically as much offensive value, and be far safer from attack, if located a hundred or so miles back of the border. The speed of the modern combat plane makes such a trip a matter of only a few minutes.

There are no such suspicions and distrusts existing between the United States and Canada as are rife in Europe, causing the na-

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

Armed Independence.
It is now clear beyond a peradventure that Nazi Germany has not the slightest intention of joining in any plan for the consolidation of European peace. Had she merely rejected, collectively or severally, the proposals put forward in the Anglo-French declaration of February 3 the situation would not necessarily have been desperate, for no one suggests that those proposals represent the sine qua non of any possible settlement. But Germany is, in effect, not prepared to consent to any terms whatever. "Security" does not interest her; what she wants, and is determined to get is the unfettered freedom of an armed independence.

Even that, taken by itself, would not be indisputable evidence of aggressive intentions; diplomatic isolation has, before now, been adopted as a deliberate policy by nations who entertained no sort of bellicose aspirations. But Germany is scarcely any longer at pains to conceal the purpose she has in mind. She harbors the aspirations which are the power of a "healthy," that is conquering nation. What she cannot acquire by diplomacy she proposes in her own good time to acquire by force; what she could gain by negotiation she wishes to gain by declaration of war, for Europe is back, we will not say to 1914, but certainly to 1918, with this substantial difference, that the "divine right of kings" has now become the divine right of the Nordic race.

METROPOLITAN MAY RETURN

The prospects that the acquisition by the city of the Fox theater for use as a municipal auditorium may result in a renewal of the annual visits to Atlanta of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company will be received with keen interest not only by music lovers but by the thousands from Georgia and the surrounding states who formerly came to Atlanta to take part in the annual week of gayety and entertainment.

The wisdom of the city's purchase of the magnificent property is illustrated by the possibility that it may make possible the return of this season of grand opera.

When the condition of the old auditorium-armory became such that each year of opera was attracting fewer patrons, efforts were made to secure the Fox theater for the week's performances, but a prohibitive rental was placed on it by the motion picture company then holding the lease.

It was the unanimous opinion of the directors of the opera association that a successful season could be conducted in the Fox, but that it was hopeless to longer endeavor to present the performances in the old auditorium. It was reluctantly decided for this reason to bring to an end the 20-year record of spring opera seasons that had brought thousands of visitors to the city annually and ranked Atlanta high in the music-loving communities of the world.

It is probable that the acquisition of the Fox will mean that other outstanding stage productions now passing Atlanta by will come to the city in future winter seasons. During the last season a number of outstanding Broadway successes, with casts of a hundred or more, were presented in Chattanooga, Birmingham and other southern cities, but the only one to come to Atlanta was Earl Carroll's Vanities, which played an unsuccessful engagement at the auditorium.

Such an attraction would have drawn capacity houses to the Fox. Atlanta lovers of high-class stage performances of every kind are certain to be among the chief beneficiaries from the purchase of the magnificent Fox property by the city.

VENIZELLOS IN NO DANGER

The sentencing to death of former Premier Venizelos and his chief aide, General Plastiras, in the recent revolution in Greece by a court-martial sitting in Athens does not mean that the once-powerful Greek leaders are in any danger of facing a firing squad.

Both are now in Paris and under the long-existent French law of asylum to political refugees have no need to fear that they will be extradited. So long as they are content to remain in France or in a French possession they will be safe from their enemies.

This, of course, the court-martial knew when the aged statesman was tried and convicted in his absence, the action being taken chiefly to assure that the leader of the recent rebellion against the government would be prevented from returning to the country to take part in further revolutionary activity.

During the troublesome period of readjustment after the World War Venizelos, with a genius for leadership, became the "grand old man" of Greece and was elevated to the premiership. His dictatorial tactics and failure to unite conflicting political elements finally brought about his downfall, and this dissatisfaction during recent years has gone far toward extinguishing the widespread respect and admiration felt towards him by his fellow-citizens for the splendid leadership he evidenced during earlier periods of distress and uncertainty.

In view of his advanced age it is probable that Venizelos has had his last day in the spotlight of world attention and that he will live out his years in company with the many political refugees from all over the world now living in Paris under the protection of the French law of asylum.

A general proposes that the United States seize all outlying islands in event of a war. Another thought is to forestall the war by seizing the generals.

Seventeen Thousand Love-Letters.

The will of a man who wrote 17,000 love letters was rejected by the courts in Paris. Count Greffulhe, who wrote the letters to various women of his acquaintance, ended his writing career by making a will, in which he declared: "My collections of love letters, French and British, which I do not wish to be sold, I bequeath to my dear friend, the Countess de la Beraudiere, who will remember that my life is the proof of my love, as my death is the proof of my faith." The family, in the death of the count on March 31, 1932, did not treat the will seriously—until "Mystery" came forth in the person of the Countess de la Beraudiere, who had been the lover of the count.

The count's family, particularly his widow, formerly Princess de Casan-Chimay, and her daughter, the Duchess of Grammont, then contested the claim in court.

During the hearing it was stated that the count wrote about 3,000 letters a year to "Mystery." Every two hours, at night, he would write a love message to one of his loves, the Duchess de Grammont told the court. The Countess de la Beraudiere, who left her home to care for the elderly count at various French watering places, declared in court she was willing that half of the count's fortune should go to the daughter, but she did not want the other half for her own. The court ruled that the Countess de la Beraudiere was not entitled to the inheritance.

Heath Talks

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

FRIVOLITY THE ANTIDOTE FOR DIGNITY.

You are old, Father Williams, the young man said, and your hair has become very white; and yet you incessantly stand on your head—do you think, at your age, it is right? In youth, Father Williams replied to his son, I feared it might injure the brain. Now that I'm perfectly sure I have none, why, I do it again and again. More sanitary philosophy than poetry in that.

The important factor of premature old age, hardening of the arteries and all, which recognized medical authorities have quite failed to apprehend is dignity, in my opinion. Not true dignity, not honest pride nor self respect, but false dignity, conceit, vanity, snobbery, arrogance, affectation.

The late Luther Burbank celebrating his birthday anniversary rolling somersaults on the lawn was not undignified.

Dignity that depends on keeping your neck stiff and your map frozen, taking yourself too seriously, and being important, is hard on the arteries.

Education, culture, good breeding make an individual keep at least an outward semblance of calm under circumstances which are likely to upset more primitive or unrefined. It is not a matter of good breeding, but of an art to avoid all manifestation of grief? Or in a man to avoid losing his temper and raising his voice and indulging in extravagant language and ranting and raving, or in the "big business executive" or the diplomat to avoid betraying his contempt or hatred or his treacherous designs against his neighbor? And in social contact a pleasant smile is indispensable. Now all this make-believe and repression of normal pulses "takes it out of" anybody. Not true energy, for there is no such thing. Nerve's merely conduct messages or impulses—they do not wear out or become exhausted nor are they consumed by the nerves. It is the wires which conduct messages when you telephone or telegraph. The harm done is rather in the release of excess energy (adrenalin poured into the blood by the adrenal glands and mobilization of blood sugar) the muscle and heart are not immobilized use. If the impulse to action were not restrained, this sudden release of energy would be absorbed or balanced by fighting, running away, playing. But such action or indeed any exercise or natural expression of emotion being impeded, bad results ensue, such as high blood pressure, the heart and blood vessels have to stand the brunt of the shock, since no amount of training or fine breeding can change the physiological reactions of the circulation. This, I believe, is a real factor in the causation of arteriosclerosis and premature physical decline.

So I sincerely believe the silly habit of rolling somersaults helps to keep my arteries soft. I roll myself several dozen a day. Have a notion it takes some of the curse of any excess in eating and smoking. Anyway I know it clears away snags and restores good nature when any little thing gets in your hair, thought I regret to say it doesn't restore your hair. But then, there's the iodine ration, if your hair is going gray too early.

In short I prescribe somersaults for anyone who is past his age.

BIG STILL CAPTURED

BY EATONTON SHERIFF

EATONTON, Ga., May 6.—(AP)—A big still, 5,000 gallons of mash, and a 10 horsepower steam boiler were taken today by Sheriff J. L. Paschal on a section of the federal lands being used to develop one of Georgia's rural rehabilitation projects near here.

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon

NORMALCY WASHINGTON, May 6.—You may shortly hear that the senate has authorized a committee investigation of the Public Works Administration. A resolution authorizing it was drawn a week ago, but not introduced. It is to be a companion piece to the Couzens' resolution recently adopted by the senate in a very quiet way. The Couzens' resolution authorized an inquiry into relief expenditures by the senate appropriations committee.

There are no scandalous rumors behind these moves. Also no political fishing expedition. Senators merely got their heads together and agreed the time had arrived for the New Dealers to "come down off Mount Olympus and subject themselves to some kind of normal audit." The strongly independent Senator Couzens conceived the idea and sold it. His moves are always above political suspicion.

In line with this, there is some talk about eventually establishing a federal bureau of audit.

BIG FINGER Deeper down than that in the senatorial mind now is a desire to keep a hand on expenditures when congress is not in session. A significant slant on the move is that the restraining hand will be exercised by the appropriations committee. The foregoing there is the committee chairman, Carter Glass, who has never been an Olympian.

The New Dealers have not objected. At least one cabinet officer privately approved the Couzens' resolution before it was adopted.

SMOOTHING The New Deal move to tighten up on news leaks seems to be spreading. Some free-talking officials have suddenly become evasive. A few have frankly asked to be relieved of the responsibility of answering questions hereafter. Not only officials but the rank and file of personnel in some government quarters have shown a sudden preference for silence.

These tightening-up flurries have occurred on several previous occasions in this and in past administrations. They never have been successful, and usually provoke a sharp, unfavorable reaction.

This one appears to be more extensive and earnest, but there is no reason to believe it will be any more successful than the others. Trying to channelize the news of the government is like trying to smooth the ocean waves.

STRETCH The family troubles of republicans are fully explained by a remark dropped some time ago by House Republican Leader Snell. Said he: "I am a liberal conservative."

There is no question that the somewhat conservative Mr. Snell has become somewhat more liberal this year. However, some of his party snickerers have taken up the remark as an indication that Mr. Snell is trying to grasp the north pole and south pole at the same time, a feat which is good if ever accomplished. These snickerers are calling him "a radical conservative."

Similarly, some of the congressional spoofers within the party have been joshing the wise Kansas editor, William Allen White, who has spoken well of men like Norris and La Follette as well as some of the republican opposites.

SHEPHERDING Speaker Byrns lately has been trying a new kind of leadership quietly in the house. It has worked very well so far.

Instead of using the strict historic Garner method, he has tried friendly consideration. He does not use his gavel on the skulls of his flock, but tries to shepherd them gently with his crook.

For instance, there has been a real old-fashioned gag-rule involved for very bill since the first one (the relief bill). On all legislation lately, the sheep have been permitted to romp and play to an unprecedented extent.

Some old-timers believe his system is working better than the Garner method would have with the peculiar temperament of the current house. The herd includes many baby lambs who are in congress only because of the political prestige of the democratic administration.

LABOR SPLIT The inner rift in the ranks of labor has become serious. It will probably be smoothed over and suppressed temporarily again without an open break, but you never can tell.

Basically, the current dispute within the A. F. of L. centers over the form of union organization. The big industrial labor over the form of union organization. The big industrial labor over the form of union organization.

What revived the argument recently is the fact that the A. F. of L. executive council has failed (in the eyes of the vertical unionists) to carry out the mandate of the last A. F. of L. convention for vertical unionism.

The council has been issuing only local charters. Not a single national charter has been approved since the convention. In one important case, the council has declined to give even a local charter to an auto union.

DEFICIENCY One prominent administration official, conversing with a senator, confessed: "What the New Deal needs now more than anything else is more able and honest men who are good administrators."

The senator smirked: "You have forgotten that you told me a year ago that what you needed most was a group of brilliant, aggressive youngsters who would fight."

"Perhaps," responded the official, "there has been too much fighting."

The Proud Peacock's Gorgeous Tail Is

Coveted Only by Other Peacocks

By Robert Quillen

A certain rich man who was an old bachelor had two charming nieces whom he loved as much as he was capable of loving anybody.

But his chief love was his money. He had worked long and hard to build his fortune and he valued it, as men do, in proportion to the effort it had cost him.

He knew that many people envied him, and the knowledge gave him a sour pleasure. He found pleasure, also in defeating the designs of chisellers who gathered about him like jackals about the kill of a lion.

His other pleasures were few. He enjoyed the respect of sensible people and the awe and servility of others, and he enjoyed the knowledge that no other member of his family had made money. But his digestion wasn't good; he couldn't sleep well; rheumatism bothered him in damp weather; and his combination of infirmities had left him little appetite for pleasures of any kind.

He despised failures and felt superior to the poor, and his way of expressing supreme contempt for a man was to say: "He's got nothing." His nieces were in that plight. They had married poor boys like themselves and turned twenty, and the two couples shared a three-room apartment to save expenses.

On pay days they went to a movie and ate dinner at a restaurant. It was the only dissipation they could afford.

One spring evening the four young people called on the rich man and found him musing in his library.

FARENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Ill Wind Blows Good. NEW YORK, May 6.—Barring the indignation of the nine million American stamp nuts, who are still thrown into fits of the shrieking meemies at the mere mention of the episode, Mr. James A. Farley's handling of the celebrated problem of the ungummed, imperforate postage stamps has converted a questionable act into a profitable public service.

The indignation of the nine million nuts has died away to a low, musical moan, except at moments when allusions such as this remind them of the outrage and provoke them to shrill outcries. And perhaps even their indignation, too, may be regarded as a gain, for certainly it contributes something to the gayety of the nation at a time when laughs are few, forced and hollow. It even makes them indignant to be called nuts, but nuts were ever thus, and the stamp collector or adult size and years native sees nothing comic in his blundering, not having the necessary perspective.

He might see something in the innocent pleasure of children who collect and trade labels off their parents' bottles of beer and schnapps at a rate of exchange based upon rarity. But he perceives no relation between his hobby and his own, although the world would be no poorer or hungrier if some discriminating flame were to set fire to all the stamp albums on earth.

Nuts of All Ages. The postoffice department, which needs the money, received $350,000 in one day from sales over the counters in Washington when Mr. Farley made the rarities available to all comers. They were standing in line at 6 in the morning, nuts of all ages and of all degrees of stamp-nutness, and when the windows were closed that evening it was estimated that a total profit of $2,000,000, all of it gray except the negligible cost of printing, selling, and shipping, and overhead, would accrue to Mr. Farley's happy department before the demand was entirely appeased.

The rare stamp trade still insists, of course, that Mr. Farley didn't do right in autographing, in his traditional green ink, the sheets of album stamps which he presented to the collector. Harold Ickes, Uncle Louis and the friend of a friend of a friend in Norfolk, Va. The true nut demands that he autograph all the demands of duplicates which were placed on public sale to destroy the rarity of the gift sheets and restore the democracy of the U. S. A. But in a democracy any man, even a public official, may stand on one constitutional right to autograph or not to autograph.

Mr. Farley took the position that an autograph was his own, to bestow or withhold as he pleased. It pleased him to withhold his signature from the sheets which were sold over the counter, although any nut certified to him by his county committee or congressional delegation, or by a local newspaper man as a deserving democrat could have had the writing put on in the authentic cursive de mienne out of the veritable Farley fountain pen.

Malicious Intent. This incident is probably the only one in the entire career of Senator Charles McNary, who is now in the United States senate, in which he displayed malicious intent. It was a malicious intent, however, to raise the fortune in rare stamps which Mr. Farley had distributed among a favored few, including the president, Ickes, Uncle Louis and himself.

It was difficult to arrive at a conscientious appraisal of the philatelic value of the treasure stamps because there was no knowing precisely how many Mr. Farley had let go. Rarity, as well as the cash available in the buying market, governed the catalog quotations. Senator McNary, however, unhampered by conscience, guessed that they were worth some fabulous sum, and crowded his criticisms with insinuations of larcenous intent.

This set the stamp nuts frantic, and Mr. Farley, with a composure as serene as his unperplexed countenance, decided to inflate the rarities to an extent limited only by the nut demand at face value. This Senator Long promoted for Mr. Farley's struggling department a known winnower of $530,000 and an additional revenue which may bring the total to $2,000,000. For all of this Mr. Farley was obliged to feel much obliged to the statesman from Louisiana.

Banquet and Dance Marks 75th Birthday Of Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48

Officials of the three Atlanta newspapers and scores of business and social leaders of Atlanta joined with members of Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48 last night to celebrate the union's diamond jubilee with a dinner and dance on the roof of the Ansley hotel. A group of those participating is shown above. Seated, from left to right, are Congressman Robert Ranspock, Herbert Porter, publisher of the Georgian; Clark Howell, editor and publisher of The Constitution; Woodruff Randolph, of Indianapolis, secretary of the International Typographical Union. Standing are the Rev. William Wier, chairman of the union's birthday committee; Ed L. Sutton, oldest living member of the organization; George Biggers, business manager of the Journal; R. R. Tisdale, president of Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48, and Luther Still, veteran union leader, who introduced the speakers. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

The history of the International Typographical Union and that of its local affiliate, Atlanta Typographical Union No. 48, is one of continued improvement in working conditions, shorter hours and higher pay for its members. Woodruff Randolph, secretary of the International, told members of the Atlanta union and their guests at a diamond jubilee dinner last night at the Ansley hotel.

"In the three-quarters of a century in which the Atlanta union has been in operation the hours of work have been cut from 12 to 7 a day and the pay raised from little or nothing to an average of about $50 a week," Mr. Randolph said.

The international secretary, who came here from Indianapolis to attend the jubilee dinner, added that since the union was organized the average life of a printer has been increased from 28 to 61 years.

In every phase of our development we have had wonderful progress and only through the combined efforts of mountains around the coast, twinkling like a far-flung tiara on the breast of Mother England.

The flames tinted the sky with crimson as they flared in a merriment of rejoicing, 400 of the fires blazing on sites used back in the days of the Romans and Saxons for signal flares of danger.

Siemal mountain, in County Antrim, Ireland, where St. Patrick once herded sheep as a slave, linked the mammoth chain visible over four Ulster counties to Scotland.

To touch off this display was the 60-year-old monarch's final task in an exhaustive day of pageantry, unrivaled in England since his grandmother, Queen Victoria, celebrated her diamond jubilee nearly 40 years ago.

Otherwise all was good humor, serenely broken only by thunderous cheering, rejoicing and, above all, obviously sincere adulation of Britain's House of Windsor.

Tonight Lord and Cockney, Briton and Scot, African and Australian, Canadian and Indian joined in drinking the king's health while bonfires blazed the length of the land in symbol of the jubilee.

A flourish of trumpets signaled the arrival of the royal party at the cathedral and its members moved with measured tread to their places facing the chancel steps while the strains of "God Save Our Gracious King" echoed and re-echoed through the church.

Behind the stately crimson and gilt thrones of the king and queen was the big square of 64 seats occupied by the royal family.

The Prince of Wales sat in the first row directly behind his parents while back of the king's right hand was the little footstool where Margaret Rose, four-year-old granddaughter of the king and queen, perched. Near her was her nine-year-old sister, Princess Elizabeth.

As the venerable Archbishop of Canterbury, richly clothed in gold and white vestments, paid impressive tribute to the sovereign, King George looked back on 25 years which the archbishop called "years of almost unbroken anxiety and strain."

Steadily the service moved toward its close, ending with a dramatic rendering of the national anthem which, started by the choir, swelled to a crescendo as the congregation joined in.

ONLY ONE FLAG FLIES
OVER CITY OF DUBLIN

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 6. (UP)—A solitary Union Jack of the British empire flew from Trinity College in the heart of Dublin today—the lone reminder of King George's silver jubilee.

Elsewhere, all buildings were bare of decorations and the day was not observed as a public holiday—practically the only spot in all the empire which ignored the celebrations.

Extra police guarded the college against any attempts to dislodge the British flag.

KING GEORGE TOUCHES OFF CHAIN OF 2,000 BONFIRES
LONDON, May 6. (AP)—A giant chain of 2,000 bonfires, touched off by King George by an electric switch in Buckingham palace, leaped like a writhing dragon of flame across the British Isles tonight.

From Land's End to John O'Groats, from northern Ireland to the channel islands the flames flickered in a dramatic climax to the day's silver jubilee celebration.

The king's torch kindled a towering pyre in Hyde Park, and fires sprang up simultaneously on moors and the locals has this been made possible," Mr. Randolph said.

The international officer told of the thousands of dollars spent annually by the union in teaching young men the craft, the hundreds of thousands spent for old age pensions, sick and death benefits and unemployment relief and the additional thousands spent to maintain the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs, one of the most outstanding institutions in the country.

Mr. Randolph was one of a number of speakers who included Clark Howell Sr., editor and publisher of The Constitution; Herbert Porter, publisher of the Georgian; and George Biggers, business manager of the Journal, as well as Jerome Jones, of the Journal of Labor.

In a few impromptu remarks Mr. Howell, speaking on behalf of the publishers of the three Atlanta dailies, said the relations between the union and the publishers always had been harmonious in Atlanta and added that he felt they always would be.

"The printers are the backbone of a good newspaper and the three Atlanta papers always have been blessed with good printers," the publisher of The Constitution said.

A number of distinguished guests including judges of the courts, Congressman Robert Ranspock, city and county officials and others were introduced by Luther Still, veteran member of the union. Officials of the union auxiliary also were present.

R. R. Tisdale, president of the local, was toastmaster and the address of welcome was made by the Rev. William Wier, a veteran printer.

A feature of the meeting was a short talk by Ed L. Sutton, oldest living member of the organization who was one of the earliest members and who served as an apprentice boy here when the union was founded in 1860.

Following the dinner, which was participated in by nearly 500 persons, a dance was given on the roof of the hotel.

Senate Adjutant.

News of Senator Cutting's death was conveyed immediately to President Roosevelt, a personal friend, at Washington. Leaders of all political parties expressed their deep regret. The senate adjourned out of respect to the fallen liberal.

"Bronson was like a son to me," said Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, also a republican independent. Rescue parties were hindered in reaching the wreckage by the country's rough terrain and slippery roads. Rains had made the land for miles about unsuitable for landing.

The eastbound plane, known as the Sky Chief, was forced to seek an emergency landing field after smoke and fog prevented its scheduled landing at Kansas City at 2:36 a. m. (central standard time). It left Los Angeles last night.

Passenger's Account.

"It seemed that we merely went on and on through that heavy curtain of fog that surrounded the cockpit," Mrs. Mesker said at a Macon hospital, to which she and the other injured were brought.

"The wrecked plane had stopped near the edge of our pasture, not far from a dirt road," she said.

"The east bank of the road showed a mark where the plane had hit and the west bank of the roadway

"I dedicate myself to your service for the years that may still be given to me. I look back on the past with thankfulness to God. My people and I have come through great trials and difficulties together. They are not over. In the midst of these days of rejoicing I grieve to think of the numbers of my people who still are without work."

"We owe to them and not least to those suffering from any form of disablement all the sympathy and help we can give to them. I hope that during this jubilee year all who can will do their utmost to find them work and bring them hope."

"Other anxieties may be in store but I am persuaded that with God's help they may all be overcome if we meet them with courage, courage and unity, so I look forward to the future with faith and hope."

YOUTH HOLDS FUTURE.

"It is to the young that the future belongs. I trust that through the fund inaugurated through my dear son, the Prince of Wales, to commemorate this year, many of them throughout this country may be helped in body, mind and character to become useful citizens."

"To the children I would like to send a special message. Let me say this to each of those whom my words may reach. The king is speaking to you. I ask you to remember that in days to come you will be citizens of a great empire. As you grow up always keep this thought before you, and when the time comes be ready and proud to give to your country the service of your work, your mind and your heart."

"I have been greatly touched by all of the greetings which have come to me today from my dominions and colonies from India and from this home country."

"My heart goes out to all who may be listening to me now, wherever you may be, either here at home, in town or village, or in some far off corner of the empire, or it may be on the high seas."

"Let me end these words to you with those that Queen Victoria used after her diamond jubilee 35 years ago. No words could more truly or simply express my own deep feelings."

showed other marks where it had struck. Then the plane tore on through the fence into our pasture, breaking down a small tree in its path. Later, we noticed that the top of a bigger tree near the road had been struck by the plane. Pieces of the engine and other wreckage were strewn beside the road and on into the pasture.

"Most of the injured already were out of the plane when Mr. Bledsoe got there. They seemed shocked, dazed."

"I heard the crash but made no investigation," said her husband.

Lay in Mud.

Seven of the injured were taken at first to his house—all "unconscious or too badly injured to tell what happened."

"When I came to, I was laid out in the mud," Mrs. Mesker related. "The baby was crying and its mother was crying for it. I managed to find a blanket and cover the child."

"I could see one of the motors lying nearly 200 feet away from the wreckage. When I tried to walk I discovered my shoes had been torn off in the crash and I couldn't find them. I took some shoes from the still form of a man lying near by and put them on."

She walked to a farmhouse and spread the alarm.

Circles Kansas City.

For half an hour, the ship circled over the Kansas City airport. It was instructed by radio to proceed to a field at Kirksville, 120 miles north-east of Kansas City. The craft crashed between 3 and 4 o'clock.

Transcontinental & Western Air officials at Kansas City were stunned by the crash—the first, they said, on a scheduled run since Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, was killed with seven others in Kansas March 31, 1931.

The Hollywood party was preparing to film "Annapolis Farewell," with Sir Guy Standing as the star. The film colony listed Wallace as a pioneer in the studio industry at the Sennett studio and forged ahead rapidly.

Two investigators from Chicago and two from Kansas City were ordered to the scene of the crash by Eugene Vidal, director of the Bureau of Air Commerce, in Washington.

FLYING CADET IS KILLED IN CRASH IN VIRGINIA

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 6. (AP)—George F. Breck Jr., 24-year-old flying cadet, was killed this morning when his plane crashed off Plum Tree Island, near Langley field.

Breck, who had been at Langley field since February 23, last, was engaged in gunnery practice at the time of the accident. He came to Langley field from Randolph Field, Texas. His father lives at 640 South Gramercy place, Los Angeles, Cal.

Cadet Breck, killed when his plane crashed near Langley Field yesterday, was a former Atlanta and member of a prominent Atlanta family. He was a former star football player at Northwestern University and also at the University of Southern California.

Until five years ago, his parents made their home in Atlanta. He is a nephew of Mrs. W. V. McMillan, of 177 Fourteenth street, N. E., and a cousin of Woodrow McMillan, of Atlanta, and Kenneth and Vernon McMillan, of New York city.

NATIONAL COTTON WEEK

MAY 6-11

EVERYBODY USES COTTON

and HELPS THE SOUTH!

No SINGLE date each year is more significant to us of the South than National Cotton Week. It is the time when special emphasis is given all over the nation to the product upon which so much of our prosperity depends.

To the people of the South, every week should be National Cotton Week. Not only should this apply to our own use of cotton, but likewise to our efforts in promoting greater use and wider consumption of it. At the moment there hangs over our cotton market, a surplus of some six million bales. So long as this exists, it forms a continuous threat. Absorbing that surplus would be a foundation stone in our program of recovery.

Cotton Week likewise suggests the need for much thought and study of the whole cotton situation by cotton growers. Ultimately the program will come back into our own hands and it is well to keep in mind that we no longer dominate the market but are faced by strong international competition.

In the meanwhile let us join in the strongest kind of effort tending to modify the slogan of National Cotton Week to make it read

"Everybody uses plenty of Cotton."

New Army Is Dedicated For Tech's Naval Reserve

A new army for the nation's leading naval reserve battalion was dedicated last night on the Georgia Tech campus with the pomp and display generally attributed to naval events. Among the prominent naval officers and civilians who attended the dedication are the three shown in the picture, left to right, Rear Admiral E. B. Fenner, U. S. N., commander of the sixth, seventh and eighth naval districts; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech, and Captain J. H. Schofield, U. S. N., of the department of navigation, navy department, Washington, D. C. Staff photo.

The new naval reserve at Georgia Tech was dedicated last night with a fanfare of addresses amid the gleam of much naval gold braid.

A telegram from President Roosevelt, congratulating the Atlanta unit of the naval reserve for its splendid record of four years' standing in being judged the prize battalion of the entire reserve, was read by Dr. M. L. Brittain, who presided.

The Atlanta reserves and the Georgia Tech naval R. O. T. C. will jointly occupy the new armory.

Admiral E. B. Fenner, commandant of the sixth, seventh and eighth naval districts, with base at Charleston, S. C., delivered the dedication address.

Other speakers were Mayor Key, Captain J. H. Schofield, of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.; Captain Rufus Zogbaum, commandant of the naval air station at Pensacola, who flew to Atlanta for the dedication, and Miss Louise Fitzsimmons, assistant to Miss Gay B. Shepperson, Georgia director of the FERA. The armory was a FERA project.

Miss Margaret Talmadge, daughter of Governor Talmadge, hoisted the commission pennant, officially dedicating the armory.

Working around in the garden or walking around an eighteen hole golf course, it's all the same... you may suffer from "exercisitis." This is a popular malady right now and its symptoms are sore, aching muscles; creaking joints; pains in back, shoulders, and legs. That's the penalty you pay for starting out on your spring schedule of exercise. But don't let it bother you. Keep on exercising and keep on massaging your muscles with cool, soothing, penetrating Penorub. You'll simply marvel at the muscle-magic it works on tired, worn-out muscles and achesy joints. The instant you apply it, it starts to make your skin tingle and when that single starts your pain begins to stop. Penorub goes right on through the skin. Pen leaves at once because your circulation picks right up at the congested spot and pain is just drawn right out. Not only does Penorub bring pain relief, but it also brings welcome relief to your medicine cabinet because there are two big, generous, money-saving size bottles at your drugstore for 60c and $1. Trial size bottle at 35c is enough to make you a Penorub user for life.

TALMADGE TO FIRE NEW BROADSIDE AT F. D. R. TONIGHT

Two agencies will provide the stimulus necessary to restore normal business and permit the absorption of the unemployed by industry," said the governor.

Governor Talmadge, whose pointed attacks on the Roosevelt administration have drawn him conspicuously into the national political limelight recently, indicated that he would not make President Roosevelt the focal point of his forthcoming speech but left no doubt that he would continue his criticism of major administration policies.

In interviews with newspapermen during the day he disclaimed any intentions of heading a third party movement against President Roosevelt next year, explaining that he sought a return to democratic party principles as defined in the national platform of 1932. He said there was already a third party in control at Washington. "A combination of communist, frenzied financing and wet nursing."

Avoids Presidential Talk.

Questioned as to his own presidential aims or ambitions, he replied: "I never planned to run for office in advance. My duty is to keep the ship of state off the rocks."

"The first thing we want to get rid of is the NIRAISM party, the brain-trusting crowd. We want to get them back in the fold of the democratic party as expounded in the democratic platform of 1932. The rest of the country is going back to the principles enunciated in that platform and if the NIRAists don't join us it will be up to them to furnish the third party in 1936."

Arriving in Washington this morning from Louisville, where he attended the Kentucky Derby Saturday, Governor Talmadge went to the capitol at noon for an informal call on members of the state congressional delegation. Representative Carl Vinson, of Milledgeville, dean of the Georgia house group, took him in on a tour of the capitol where a general reception followed.

Later the governor went over to the senate side for a call on Senator Walter F. George and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., but failed to see either one, due to the adjournment of the chamber out of respect to Senator Bronson Cutting, of New Mexico, who was killed in an airplane crash early in the week.

While visiting on the house floor, a privilege extended to all state executives, Governor Talmadge received a round of introduction from the assembled congressmen. Finally he found himself the center of a confab participated in by the Georgia group, all but a few of whom were present.

In his discussions with the Georgia group and other state leaders at the capitol it developed later that Governor Talmadge was told rather bluntly in some quarters that he had made a serious mistake, jeopardizing his political future, by his continued attacks on the national administration. Some of his friends warned him that to pursue the attacks might mean his political ruin, insisting that Georgia is certain to give wholehearted support to the president when the time comes to nominate a candidate for head of the ticket next year. As for the possibility of a third party movement against the president, the governor was told such a thing is utterly futile in Georgia. Nothing is more certain than that Georgia will enthusiastically support Mr. Roosevelt for the nomination and in the election, he was informed.

During his talk with Georgia house members, Governor Talmadge did not go into the school fund question, revolving around the statement of Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins last week that responsibility for a more liberal program on the part of the FERA rested with the state executive, whom he charged with failure to make proper provision for meeting unpaid salaries of teachers in the rural school system.

Meanwhile, Carl Vinson called a meeting of the Georgia house group for tomorrow to discuss procedure in carrying to the White House the state's appeal for additional relief funds—already rejected by Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator—for accumulated back salaries of teachers. The relief administration gave relief to the schools effective April 19, but did not provide for salaries unpaid to that date.

Explicit confidence was expressed by the governor that the Georgia congressional delegation "will see the state gets its share without surrendering state rights." If the $90,000,000 to which he said the state was entitled were "sent down without red strings," he asserted, "we'd have a Garden of Eden in Georgia."

"The schools of Georgia," said Governor Talmadge, "have gotten more money from the state in taxes this year than ever before in the history of the state and we have the best schools in Georgia of any state in the country. Our state university system is one of the oldest in the country. Wesleyan College for women at Macon is the oldest institution of its kind in the country. We are getting students from everywhere and have nothing to worry about in this respect."

"The Georgia delegation in congress is amply able to take care of our schools. We have a fine delegation and I am not worried about their ability to get Georgia's share of federal funds."

So far as is known the governor has no plans for calling on PWA Administrator Harold L. Ickes, Administrator Hopkins, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and others whom he has put on the pan recently. He explained he was here merely for the purpose of delivering the scheduled address, set for 10 o'clock tomorrow night, eastern standard time (also 10 o'clock Atlanta time), and would make no official calls beyond the round of visits with the Georgia congressmen and senators.

Talks With Farley, McIntyre.

Coming from Louisville to Washington, Governor Talmadge occupied a car most of the way with Postmaster-General James A. Farley and Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to the president, it was learned today. Despite the friction arising on account of his severe administration attacks, he and the two associates of the president spent much time in each other's company and discussed national issues generally, it was reported.

Countless, his red suspenders glared, Talmadge addressed newspapermen in his hotel room tonight, characteristically leveling each verbal volley at "the alphabetical agencies" and predicted that if Mr. Roosevelt persisted in his present course "he'll be overwhelmingly defeated, and I hope he is."

"We're going to have a famine," said the Georgian, "if they keep up AAA," and he advocated instead a return to the sabbatical year of Biblical days.

Talmadge recalled that such a farm holiday every seventh year was the law of Moses, and he got it from good authority. Asked how such a holiday could be enforced, he said in Israel and Canaan it was enforced by law—that it gave the land a rest and the insects time to die off.

Roosevelt Responsible.

Asked about the reaction to his recent personal attack on Mr. Roosevelt, Talmadge replied:

"Why hop on Hopkins, Wallace and Tugwell—Roosevelt is responsible. He appointed them."

He discounted the strength of any "reaction," declaring the farmers of Georgia were with him, "except the paid farmers."

"All this talk about the farmers being for all this is wrong," he said. "The farmers are the smartest boys we have for the reason they know plenty of time to think. They know that no one is going to give them any thing and they know checks given for curtailing production are dearly bought. Anybody that's got any sense knows he's not going to get something for nothing."

Boom Without Tax.

The price paid for the checks, Talmadge said, was the holding of the price of cotton by the government. Without the propping tax, he said, cotton now could be "16 cents and more," and Georgia would have had a boom 12 months ago.

Farmers getting benefit checks for average retirement were pictured by the governor as "like a bunch of kittens getting fresh beef for the first time," but he added that as they had time to think, the farmers changed their minds about the whole AAA system.

Talmadge said the people of Georgia "feel very kindly for Roosevelt"—do myself. But they realize all this is destroying the country."

"They feel," he added at this point, "the administration has been led away by theorists, by professors, with a good deal of designing communists behind them." The government, he said, should be a referee or umpire "and get out of business."

The best thing that could happen to the farmer, the Georgian observed, would be "to kill off 90 per cent of his political friends."

Benning Maneuvers To Start Wednesday

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 6. (AP)—

Final plans for the fourth corps area maneuvers at Fort Benning will be made at a conference of high ranking officers of the area tomorrow morning.

The actual maneuvers will begin tomorrow with a number of troop movements but the 5,000 officers and men who will take part in the war games will not take the field until Wednesday morning when the firing will begin.

Brigadier General Robert O. Van Horn, eighth brigade commander, who will be in command of the two weeks' maneuvers, conferred today with Colonel Fred L. Munson, acting commander of Fort Benning, regarding the infantry school's participation in the maneuvers.

RELIEF SPENDING TO START TODAY; HOPKINS HAS WHIP

it he gave specific powers to Hopkins' agency to:

Investigate and see that the program is honestly carried out.

Make periodic reports of progress and end projects that do not give sufficient employment to warrant their continuance.

See that as many as possible of those given jobs are hired from relief rolls and govern their selection.

Study wages and working conditions and give the information to the president on which these may be fixed.

Coordinate data and make research studies.

Recommend and carry on small useful projects designed to assure a maximum of employment.

Charts Procedure.

The executive order charted officially the course that the president previously had outlined for applications to follow.

First they would go to Walker's division for study. That division also will inform the public what allotments are made and how they are progressing.

The allotments section will recommend to the president what spendings should be made on the basis of applications that come from Walker's division—seeking specifically to provide a "co-ordinated and balanced program of work."

In giving Hopkins so wide a range of powers, the presidential order provided for:

"A works progress administration which shall be responsible to the president for the honest, efficient, speedy and co-ordinated execution of the work relief program as a whole and for the execution of that program in such manner as to move from the relief rolls to work on such projects or in private employment the maximum number of persons in the shortest manner possible."

To Report to Congress.

The orders provided for the commissioner of account of the treasury to do the paying out of funds and keep accounts of the spending.

They specified that a full report should be made to congress of the spending and of the obligations incurred.

The budget director was instructed to pass upon all requests for money to be used for administrative expenses.

All emergency and regular agencies of the government were instructed to give full co-operation in carrying out the program.

The three divisions set up by the orders were instructed to submit to the president for his approval rules necessary to carry out the work.

Action Today.

The issuance of the order cleared the way for the allotment board to act officially tomorrow upon a wide group of projects that have been prepared by various government agencies and which already have been gone over informally by the applications' division.

There are about a billion dollars of plans covered by road building, non-federal public works and PWA allotments that previously had been made but had not been carried out because of lack of funds.

The allotment board has several posts which have not yet been filled. It was disclosed today that George L. Berry, of Nashville, would probably be the representative of labor on the board, but there still are to be chosen representatives from the American Bankers' Association and farm organizations.

Fiorello La Guardia, the mayor of New York, has virtually been selected as the representative of the United States Conference of Mayors.

While these developments were going forward at the White House, Harvey Couch, head of a group of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana power companies, called to promise co-operation with the government's rural electrification program.

The assignment of investigative duties to Hopkins gave to him one of the duties for which Secretary Ickes had built up a large staff of investigators, headed by Louis K. Glavis.

This agency has done the investigative work for the public works that were carried on under the old $3,200,000,000 fund. No indication was given of the extent to which Hopkins might find it necessary to build up his own detective force. He now has a small staff of investigators.

VOTE POSTPONED ON LIQUOR STORE

McCUTCHEON SAYS LOCAL
Vote Waits State Decision;
Council Meets Today

Postponement of the local referendum to empower Mayor Key to operate a series of municipal liquor stores until after the May 15 state referendum on repeal was announced yesterday by Councilman Howard C. McCutcheon, principal proponent of the municipal dispensary plan.

McCutcheon's announcement came on the heels of completion of the petition to force the local referendum by the signing of 1,861 names, 11 more than the needed 10 per cent of the registered voters in the 1934 general city election.

The McCutcheon stand was announced as city council adjourned its scheduled session yesterday afternoon until 2 o'clock this afternoon in order to pay its respects to Alderman Guy Coleman, first ward, who died Saturday.

McCutcheon asserted he will not even present the petition to council this afternoon, but will await the May 20 session in order that good faith may be shown.

Council attended funeral services for Coleman in a body. His chair in the council chamber was draped with crepe and a large bouquet of roses was placed in his desk by L. Glenn Jewberry, superintendent of the city hall building. Coleman was vice chairman of the council committee in control of the building.

Although the local referendum is definitely sidetracked in the battle for repeal, Mayor Key plans to carry his battle for state repeal to every section of Georgia. He was considering a plane trip to attend a repeal rally at Savannah tonight, and indicated he will make the trip if the plane is available.

An invitation to Key to speak was sent to the executive offices yesterday by Andy Smith, of the Savannah hotel. Key was told that former legislator Shelby Myrick was vice chairman of the repeal rally at Savannah, and has arranged the meeting.

Alderman J. Charlie Murphy will lead a battle to prevent setting of a date for the referendum on the assumption that the thing proposed is illegal and therefore it is not mandatory on council to consider the petition.

McCutcheon, however, will contend that the people have demanded they be given a right to vote on the issue. He will insist that the run store petition is just as legal as the liquor sale of beer in Atlanta, and the petition is a mandate to council to set a referendum.

The council this afternoon is slated to elect a purchasing agent for a four-year term beginning May 21. Lloyd A. Walker, incumbent, and John Towler, a former assistant in Walker's office, are candidates.

Alderman J. Sid Tiller, third ward, will file his resignation, but it will not be effective until May 26. Thomas C. McLaure, former third ward councilman, is slated for Tiller's successor.

Morgenthau To Talk On American Dollar

WASHINGTON, May 6. (AP)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today he would discuss "the American dollar" in a nationwide radio broadcast on Monday night at 10 o'clock, eastern standard time.

His address, he said, will be a "review of what will have been doing with our monetary policy."

owned by a small group of rich people who are willing to sacrifice the best interests of the people for their personal gain.

"But even so, the grounds of the appeal are fallacious.

"It is a well known fact that beer saloons seek back streets and side streets and do not show themselves on the main thoroughfares and in the region of high rents. This is clearly demonstrated in Atlanta. The old saloon districts have never developed, because the old taint remains on them and probably will remain on them as long as there are those of us alive who remember the horror and degradation of the old days of free-flowing liquor and beer.

"Several years ago one of Atlanta's most civic-minded and efficient business organizations, the Central Maritime Street Association, went to considerable expense and trouble to remove beer saloons and pool rooms from the section in which its members were so interested.

"They realized, because they had proof in their business records, that retail trade shuns the areas of saloons and pool rooms, and that the removal of them and that no section could thrive in which intoxicants were sold."

Murrell Statement.
The statement of Commander Murrell follows:

"The American Legion was the first national organization to urge national repeal, this action taking place at the national convention of the Legion, held in Detroit in 1932.

"The Legion still believes in repeal of the state prohibition laws and more especially as regards beer.

"I am convinced that the wide sale of beer in Georgia since various local authorities have winked at its sale has vastly reduced the amount of liquor drinking. And I believe that honestly made beer, in reasonable quantity, is a food as well as a beverage and of far less harm than harmful to its consumer.

Wants Law Changed.
"But the Legionnaires of Georgia pride themselves upon the fact that they would strongly prefer the legalization and regulation of the manufacture and sale of beer to the present illegal sale.

"I believe heartily in a change in the state law which will permit the manufacture of beer in Georgia cities, providing employment for many workers and an additional revenue to the state.

"With Georgia in its present financial situation, with the schools closed, and with a lack of funds, it seems to me to be very foolish to cast aside this source of much-needed revenue."

WALLACE, PERKINS ENEMIES OF STATE, SAYS T. M. FORBES

gantic sales tax, imposed upon those who can least afford to pay it, the speaker said. "Wallace, fearing the loss of his pet project, which has given him over $31,000,000 to spend in administrative expenses during the last 12 months of the tax, has deliberately attempted to arouse class hatred and prejudice the cotton farmers against the mills, by accusing the manufacturers of trying to destroy the entire farm relief program. He knows he does not speak the truth when he makes that charge, for it is a matter of record that the cotton textile industry has consistently insisted that the farmers continue to receive rental and benefit payments for their participation in the crop control program."

Introduced by Elsas.

Opening his address following an introduction by Norman Elsas, vice president of the Fulton Bag and Cotton Mill, Mr. Forbes outlined the plan played by the cotton mills in the economic life of Georgia.

"There are more than 200 cotton spinning, weaving, knitting and finishing plants in this state," he said. "These mills operate a total of 3,325,000 spindles and consume well over a million bales of cotton per year. They give employment to 60,000 workers, who with their families comprise fully one-sixth of the state's population.

"According to the report of the Department of Commerce and Labor, the capital investment in Georgia textile mills amounts to nearly $210,000,000. The pay rolls of these mills are approximately $50,000,000 per year and they purchase raw materials costing about $125,000,000 annually.

"In producing about 525,000,000 pounds of cotton goods per year, they add about $75,000,000 to the value of the raw products and sell the finished goods for about $225,000,000. The mills purchase approximately 500,000 tons of coal and 500,000 kilowatt hours of electricity per year. As a whole, the mills pay more taxes than any other business group in the state.

"The entire cotton textile industry in this country is faced with some severe bankruptcy unless there is some definite improvement in the immediate future. Orders, except for sale to the government, or on a hand-to-mouth basis, are practically non-existent.

"Recent reports show that in addition to eight mills in Georgia that have been closed for six months or more, nine other mills have shut down completely during the past few weeks. The closing of these nine mills threw 1,300 people out of work, eliminated $22,000 per week in pay rolls and stopped cotton consumption to the extent of 75 bales per week.

"The survey further shows that 14 other mills employing 40,000 workers with total weekly pay rolls amounting to $45,000, and consuming 1,300 bales of cotton per week, are planning to shut down entirely as soon as existing orders have been completed, unless new business, at profitable prices, can be secured in the near future.

"Twenty-nine other Georgia mills have advised us that they are curtailing operations from 10 per cent in one case to 75 per cent in another, in another—the average being about 25 per cent. This curtailment on the part of 29 mills has thrown 1,700 workers out of the job, has reduced pay rolls by $40,000 per week and has decreased cotton consumption to the extent of 1,700 bales weekly.

"After successfully avoiding the issue for months, official Washington has finally had to take cognizance of the situation. The pressure from senators and representatives from textile manufacturing states has become so great that the administration has, at last, been forced to admit the existence of a condition that is endangering the whole recovery program. As usual, political expediency succeeded where sound reasoning based on actual facts has failed.

"As a result the president has appointed a committee of four cabinet members to investigate the cotton textile industry. Whether this is a sincere effort to determine and correct the fundamental troubles of a very sick industry or whether it is just another instance of 'passing the buck' only time can reveal. The cabinet committee is composed of Secretaries Hull, Roper, Perkins and Wallace. That gives our industry about a 50-50 chance of getting something done.

"I believe Mr. Hull and Mr. Roper will earnestly endeavor to find a constructive solution to our problems. But Wallace has already demonstrated his inability for his complete ignorance of sound economics. And, so far as the south is concerned, Miss Perkins has already demonstrated what she is capable of doing."

Operated Under Code

Mr. Forbes told the Rotarians the cotton textile industry was the first industry to propose and receive a fair code of competition under the NRA. During the first few months under the code, more than 100,000 new employees were added, average wage scales boosted more than 70 per cent and total pay rolls practically doubled.

"In the first place, by reason of our having begun operations under a code several months in advance of other major industries, the high labor costs forced the price of cotton goods to a level that was completely out of balance with competing fibers and with other basic commodities," he said. "In the second place, the increased cost of American-made cotton goods, resulting from high labor costs under the NRA, has completely destroyed our foreign markets. Because of high wage scales, shorter working hours, and reduced machine operations it is no longer possible for American manufacturers to compete with the low-wage countries in the world's markets. As an example, our cotton-cloth exports in 1931 were $64,000,000 and in 1934, 226,000,000.

Code Aids Imports.
"A third result of the NRA, which has affected a reduction in the consumption of American cotton textile goods, is the ever-increasing importation of foreign made goods, principally from Japan. Japanese imports jumped from 4,536,319 square yards in 1930 to 17,857,170 in 1934. Considering only cotton piece goods, bleached, printed, dyed and colored, the Japanese importation has grown from a total of 770,000 square yards in 1931 to 7,287,000 square yards in 1934 and during the two months of January and February 1935, the total importations of Japanese cotton goods was greater than the total for the entire year of 1934."

The speaker explained that the average wage scale in Japanese mills is only 23.4 cents a day, while the average weekly wage of southern textile mill operatives is $14.34.

Belittled by Wallace.

"Secretary Wallace has attempted to discount the seriousness of this Japanese competition in our domestic markets by saying that the total Japanese imports are less than 1 per cent of our total domestic production. This may be true, but they fail to point out the fact that the Japanese concentrate their imports on particular kinds of cotton goods, so that they amount to a considerably larger percentage of the domestic production of those particular goods."

After charging that the NRA, with its section 7-A has completely disrupted the peaceful relations between employers and employees, Mr. Forbes said the administration has failed to protect the mills against the assaults of labor agitators and racketeers. He said that less than 50,000 employees out of a total of more than 400,000 are members of unions.

Milestones in Reign Of King of England

By the Associated Press.

June 22, 1911—Crowned in Westminster Abbey.

August 10, 1911—Bill enacted establishing the supremacy of the house of commons for purposes of finance and other public legislation over the house of lords after the new king had agreed to create sufficient liberal peers to pass the bill.

December 12, 1912—Crowned emperor of India in Delhi.

July 21, 1914—Called a conference in Buckingham palace to urge "a spirit of generous compromise" in settling the controversy over home rule for Ireland. Conference failed.

August 4, 1914—Great Britain declared war on Germany.

1914-1918—King George visited the front at six different periods and led the country in economy, relief work and morale. On one visit been employed for 30 years were eligible for pensions.

Class 1 railroads pooled their resources and went to court. The Pullman Company and two express concerns joined them. The District of Columbia courts held the law was illegal because it tried to regulate commerce within a state as well as interstate commerce. The government carried the fight to the supreme court.

At the time the law was passed the New Deal knew it was on uncertain ground. When he signed the bill, President Roosevelt said it was unsatisfactory in some respects and probably would have to be amended.

Majority Opinion.
Roberts announced when court convened today, that the majority opinion was too long to read. He said he would summarize it. In one brief paragraph he struck at the heart of the reason why five justices believe the law is illegal:

"We are of the opinion that the act is invalid because it is not regulation of commerce within the states within the meaning of the constitution."

It amplified it in this way: "It is arbitrary in the last degree to place upon the carriers the burden of gratuities to thousands who have been unfaithful and for that cause have been separated from the service, or who have elected to pursue some other calling or who have retired from business or have been for other reasons lawfully dismissed. And the claim that such largess will promote efficiency or safety in the future operation of the railroads is without support in reason or common sense."

Government Discouraged.
Solicitor-General Stanley Reed, the administration's lawyer in supreme court litigation, was in the chamber when the decision was read. He knew that in a few days the court would pass on another New Deal case—the Schechter Poultry Company suit, which involves the life of NRA. His eyes were gloomy as he heard Roberts' opinion.

It is not so much the loss of this one case that discourages the New Dealers as it is Roberts' enlistment with the conservative faction of the court. They fear he has changed his mind since the day when he upheld the administration in the gold clause case and the Minnesota mortgage suit.

This former Philadelphia lawyer—prosecutor of the Teapot Dome oil cases—holds the balance of power in the court now and has it within his power to write and rewrite the law of the land for the next two years.

Miss Swindell Weds W. P. Thomas Jr., Of Americus, Ga.

Miss Beth Swindell and Walter Peyton Thomas Jr., of Americus, were quietly married Sunday at the home of the bride on Howard N. E. The ceremony was performed by the brother of the bride, the Rev. Hoke Shirley. During the ceremony "At Dawning" was played by Mrs. Shirley.

Miss Mary Higginbotham, of West Point, was the maid of honor and only attendant. She was crowned in silk crepe of a dusty pink shade, made with flowing sleeves of cream net with insets of lace. Her hat was a picture model in brown straw. She wore a shoulder cluster of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride wore her traveling suit of gray silk crepe, with blouse of blue and gray, which tied at the throat in a tailored bow. Her hat was a summer model in gray felt. Accessories were also gray. Her flowers were sweetheart roses and swansons.

After the ceremony Mrs. Hoke Shirley entertained at a wedding luncheon. The centerpiece was the beautiful bride's cake flanked by tall white tapers in silver candlesticks. The cake, surmounted by a miniature bride and bridegroom, was baked by Mrs. W. O. McDonald, of Gainesville, Fla. She also baked the bride's cakes when Miss Lillian Swindell married Thomas J. Wren and when Miss Edna Swindell became the bride of the Rev. Hoke Shirley.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas left by motor for their wedding journey. They will make their home in Americus.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Leonidas A. Swindell and the late L. A. Swindell, of Savannah. Her mother was before her marriage Miss Katie Black, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James Edgar Black. The bride's uncle is the Rev. John G. Black, of Trion.

Mr. Thomas is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Thomas Sr., who reside on the Dawson road, Americus. His only sister is Mrs. James D. Chappell, of Cheshamville. He is the assistant in cotton adjustment work in Sumter county. He formerly wrote a column of comment in the American Times Recorder under the heading "Coming and Going."

Chinoiserie Restaurant To Form Novel Feature of Flower Show

By Sally Forth.

IF YOU haven't saved time on your schedule of the week to drop in to see the Peachtree Garden Club's mammoth flower show on Thursday and Friday, you'll be sorry. And don't forget that Sally warned you. Even if you are not a slave to the compelling beauty of flowers, you'll probably not be able to resist peeping in at 671 Peachtree after you have glimpsed the entrance to the Chinoiserie restaurant, now under construction, which will be a most distinctive feature of the show.

Pretty soon you'll see a thatched roof going up in front of that part of the building which will become the restaurant, with bamboo supports out of which sprout little foreign-looking plants, in true Chinese fashion. The decorative scheme, according to Harvey Smith, who is planning and executing it, harks back to the days of Louis XV. But there's much evidence of Chinese influence, which, explained provided, of course, your mood is not too voracious. At any rate you won't want to miss the restaurant when you go to the flower show, for it will immediately transport you to a scene of indolent ease and you can imagine yourself a favorite at the magnificent court of Louis XV. Is there anyone so prosaic that he wants to forego such a royal feeling?

IT WAS Memorial Day. Troops were parading down Peachtree. Cadet Lockwood, of Panama, splendid in his G. M. A. uniform, stepped along jauntily when a titan-haired girl was crowded from the sidewalk almost in his path. It was Polly Foster, of Panama, whom he hadn't seen for months and did not even know in the States. Of course he couldn't speak—couldn't even nod—for rigid military discipline prevailed. So he went his way, wondering where she was visiting and where he could reach her. In Panama they had attended numerous parties and had danced at garrison entertainments.

However, fate took a kindly interest in the cadet's affairs and he met Polly at the junior dance at Fort McPherson on Saturday. Of course, they danced, and guests, noting their grace and artistic ability, demanded an exhibition dance. And Polly and Cadet Lockwood glided their graceful way through a waltz. Her jade green frock, with its full, beruffled skirt, swung to the rhythm of the music as her dainty silver slippers, followed unerringly her partner's intricate steps.

Completing the color motif of blue, white and purple, the decorator has hung a long purple curtain at the rear of the restaurant as a backdrop. Across the counter in the rear, Mrs. Henry Newman and members of her committee who are in charge will arrange huge purple cabbages filled with tempting salads. The white-painted tables will be graced with jade plants in true Chinese fashion, and here you will be served dainty sandwiches, salads, drinks, ices—in fact, most anything your appetite demands.

Woman Sues for $1,000,000 For Loss of Husband's Love

MIAMI, Fla., May 6.—(AP)—A million-dollar damage suit was filed against Mrs. Dorothy Clark of New York today by Mrs. Morrison Orr, on a charge she had been "wrongfully, wickedly, unjustly and maliciously" deprived of the affection of her husband, wealthy Piqua, Ohio, manufacturer.

The declaration was filed in one of three suits, each for $1,000,000, brought March 25 by Mrs. Orr, who said she was suing "both compensatory and exemplary" damages because the "has been degraded among her acquaintances" and "her physical and nervous system has been injured." In one of the two remaining suits in which preliminary papers only have been filed, Mrs. Clark was named jointly with Mrs. Eliza B. Orr, mother of the manufacturer, and in the other the mother-in-law was individually sued.

Some months ago I wrote an item for this column indicating a trend of thought amongst hunters to the effect that the crows are becoming a serious menace to game birds. There is, of course, well established evidence that the crow is detrimental to planted crops. Just exactly what the extent of damage done by the crow is, cannot be set forth at this writing, for there is a lot of work to be done yet in determining the economic status of the crow in Georgia.

It appears fairly obvious, however, that damage done by the crow is of such a nature that he should be brought under control. This idea is not a product of Georgia conditions alone, but of conditions elsewhere. Correspondence with conservationists over the nation lead me to believe that there is actually a national movement to wipe out the crow and non-game standpoints. Even the most enthusiastic full-protectionist will demand control of the crow upon seeing the evidence against him, gathered in heron rookeries of south Florida. It has been reported to me that over 50 per cent of the eggs in these rookeries are destroyed by crows. Now I don't know a bird student anywhere that would snap an ibis or a heron for a crow. Not one. The upset of natural conditions occasioned by the coming of white men to this continent has penalized the great wading birds and benefited the crows. One is far better able to judge the

No New Taxes Seen By Congress Chiefs

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—Hope of avoiding new taxes for at least the next two years was expressed today by Congressional leaders after a quick survey of the government's financial position.

They found that appropriations so far had been put off slightly more than one per cent above budget estimates, and predicted that differences would be more than met by increasing returns from present taxes.

Four annual appropriations bills, making money available to run the government next fiscal year, have been signed by the president. Five others are somewhere between house passage and presidential approval.

These nine called for an outlay of $3,012,065,847 against budget estimates of $2,970,034,624. The increase included restoration of the five per cent pay cut, voted over presidential disapproval, and an increase in army personnel, which Mr. Roosevelt accepted.

"That would indicate that we need not levy any new taxes," Speaker Byrnes remarked.

2-A co-operative double, preferring a takeout but permitting a leave-in if partner's hand seems to call for it.

3-South expects from North a strong hand. The guarded king of diamonds looks like a valuable card for no-trump purposes.

The Play. West's three-diamond bid, instead of shutting the opponents out of the bidding, had shut out his partner. Consequently West opened his fourth best diamond, South won the trick with the king, and played the ace and king of hearts, so that East's three-guarded jack showed up. South could not miss making four club tricks the way the cards were divided. He ran his nine tricks and then conceded the balance to the opponents.

Comment. The way the cards lay a spade opening, followed by a diamond shift from East at some point or other, would have given the defense four spades and six diamond tricks. Furthermore, East and West could have made a contract of four spades, though it would have been difficult to reach, as neither East nor West had anything approaching a sound opening bid. This is one instance in which a pre-emptive bid became a boom-erang.

TOMORROW'S HAND. South, dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.
Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: I have a best boy-friend who is handsome as a Greek god and knows it. When we walk down the street he always casts side-long glances at the windows to see himself and he can't get by a mirror without a long admiring look. He has never paid me a compliment but he is always asking me what I think of his tie, his shirt and hat. Of course I am crazy about him but I am not sure that any girl could be happy married to him. I have made the mistake of feeding his vanity and now he expects it and takes it as a matter of course. Do you suppose he gets over this as he gets older? He is now 25 and wants me to marry him in the fall.

Answer: A woman who has traveled extensively all her life and made the acquaintance of men on both sides of the water says she has never seen a really handsome man who wasn't vain and she has never seen a vain man who had any time for a woman who didn't feed his vanity with adoring looks and fulsome flattery.

When he is grown his mother and sisters tell him how good-looking he is. He catches approving glances from women on the street. He hears whispered comments from strangers, his classic profile. The ladies want him for a husband because he shows off the merchandise. He is welcome at social functions because he is adorning. He looks into the mirror and gets confirmation of what he hears. Unless he is pretty well-balanced he concludes he is a man among men.

Mother Nature, usually trying to even up things, always makes him a woman's enemy. He is willing to take a back seat and let him be the cynosure of all eyes. She finds her full delight in admiring him and in hearing others admire him. The Greek god belongs to her. Her cup is full. "Have you met my husband?" a little brown hen of a wife asked an acquaintance. Upon receiving the negative answer she added: "He is the best looking thing you ever saw in your life and when you see him you are going to envy me." What man could resist such a compliment in an atmosphere of adulation like the one this wife creates for her husband? She has studied her man, discovered what he wants; so she shines on him with the sun of her approval and he basks in it.

We rather expect a pretty woman to be a little vain. A man, on the other hand, is usually a little vain and a little vain man is a laughing stock to all but the women who love him and those who don't know him. A little vanity is a necessary part of a man's life. For age doesn't ravage masculine beauty as it does feminine. Additional pounds that he puts on in middle age make him appear a little more important. Greying hair gives him a certain distinction. The years sit lightly on him and the mirror approves him as long as he can stand before it. He will always be a bit imperious with his women folks and, strange to say, he seems to be able to make them like it.

Household Arts BY ALICE BROOKS.

THESE TOWELS ADD COLOR TO KITCHEN.

We admire the antics of the elephant whether he's at the circus, the zoo or on our kitchen towels. And these doll ones—in one or many colors—will be as much fun to embroider as they are to look at. You'll find them easy to do. Make them for that next shower or church bazaar—they'll meet with great approval. There's a towel for each day of the week.

In pattern 5232 you will find a transfer pattern of seven motifs averaging 4 3/4 x 10 inches; illustrations of the stitches needed, and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Communism Not So Strong In America, States Melton

Legion Leader, in Speech Here, Says Cure for Radicalism Is 'Conservative Youth.'

Quincy Melton, of Griffin, national vice commander of the American Legion, spoke last night at the Chamber of Commerce under the auspices of the Young People's Social Reform League. Mr. Melton spoke on "The Legion's Fight on Communism."

Declaring that the cure for radical youth is conservative youth, Mr. Melton tendered to the latter the entire force of one million Legionnaires and the half million members of the woman's auxiliary.

"I am gratified to report," said the vice commander, "that the spread of communism and its strength in America is much less than I've talked has led us to believe. Students generally do not appear to be in sympathy with the communistic movement. It has been proved that the recent student strikes against war were prompted by literature sent out by communist headquarters in New York."

"The American Legion and the army of the United States offers the country insurance against war by means of adequate national defense," he said. "There is no greater organization for peace in the United States than the Legion, but with our national defense, we are in a position to defend the nations of the world, we are vulnerable and other nations do not have the fear of our forces necessary to keep them off us."

The universal draft, sponsored by the Legion, was explained by Mr. Melton as a means of taking the profit out of war. Resources as well as men would be drafted, he said, and those who desire war for the sake of profit are no longer a menace to the country.

The vice commander complimented the Atlanta Post No. 1 on its campaign of Americanism and predicted a certificate of award for its work at the next convention in St. Louis.

State Federation's 39th Conclave Opens This Evening in Valdosta

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD, Editor of Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. VALDOSTA, Ga., May 6.—This is Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs week in Valdosta. From every section of the state officers, executive board members and presidents of 271 clubs composing the organization are traveling by train and motor to attend the opening session Tuesday evening. The four-day conclave meets here at the invitation of the Wymodausis Club, of Valdosta, of which Mrs. W. H. Oliver is president and official hostess.

The convention opens with a candle-lit banquet staged tonight amid a setting of floral beauty in the Wymodausis Club building. The glow of hundreds of candles will provide the becoming and glamorous illumination that makes women look even more attractive. Gowned in resplendent evening costumes, clubwomen will be seated around a festive board adorned with flowers that are grown to a state of perfection in Valdosta.

Pink roses, the Wymodausis Club flower, placed in crystal containers, and crystal candlesticks holding pink tapers will grace the damask-covered tables. Place cards inscribed with pink roses will mark the guests' places, and May baskets filled with similar flowers will be given as favors. Mrs. T. E. Cook will make the invocation, and the banquet given by the officers, past presidents and distinguished visitors will be presented by Valdosta Garden Club members.

By the way, perhaps the network of women's clubs would never have penetrated every state in the union, had not Charles Dickler, of New York city, his lecture in the metropolis in 1868 unwittingly set in motion the wheels of General Federation of Women's Clubs, by bringing together the nucleus later known as the Sorosis Club of New York city. The story goes that several women applied for admission to the banquet given to the author of "David Copperfield."

In those less modern days, women were not allowed in public places and the request was denied. But, as a special concession, they were permitted to sit in the balcony after the banquet to hear the famous author, Mrs. Jennie C. Crowley was in that group, and then and there she determined to organize the resplendent feminist group known as the Sorosis. Thus, in 1868, the first woman's club was formed, from which has grown the organization that reaches into 48 states, with an enrollment of millions of women.

Valdosta clubwomen will entertain at the candle-lit banquet and a fine arts program will be presented by talented local artists. Mrs. W. H. Oliver, president of the hostess club,

Crackers Wins Atlanta Derby; Beckett Tops Pros in Tourney

KELLEY FACES TRAVELER TEAM IN GAME TODAY

Rain Finally Abates and Clubs See Chance To Begin Series.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 6.—The rain gods finally finished their two-day fiesta Monday morning but the effects left Arkansas in a muddy state, including the Traveler field acreage, scene of Southern Association baseball competition here. Hence, the diamond still remained unfit for play, making it necessary to postpone the series between the Little Rock club and the Atlanta Crackers for the second day.

Slow but positive disappearance of the clouds Monday afternoon indicated that a game would be played Tuesday afternoon, starting at 3:30 and a double-header Wednesday. At least, that's the latest report from Traveler headquarters. Two night baseball has been deferred until the arrival of arid atmosphere.

SWITCHES TO KELLEY.
Eddie Moore, Crackers' chief pitcher, underwent a change of mind in his pitching nominations. Bill Schmidt, originally billeted to hurl Monday, will be supplanted by the veteran Harry Kelley Tuesday. Little Rock's biggest pain-in-the-neck since plucked off the lot of Parkin, Ark., by Memphis, a double-headed program.

Despite the fact that only one regular is hitting over .300 at present, one Johnny Hill, Moore said he was well satisfied and believed his Crackers would find their punch with more sunshine.

Moore is tickled pink over Hill's trouping around the hot corner. He intends to keep Johnny there, Moore's shifting himself to the keystone automatically released "G" Lipscomb to the utility infield job.

EDDIE CONFIDENT.
"I'm positive the Crackers will remain in the thick of the fight until the curtain is rung down on the season," Moore said. "Yes, I know Atlanta has had a number of other 'pennant-winners' since 1925. But in the past, slight bumps created too much excitement, resulting in too many changes. My plans are to keep the present personnel intact. I feel sure every member will come around."

Amid the case of Al Brown, rookie outfielder who reported here Sunday, Moore informed he probably would be farmed out.

UNION 'LIFTS' BAER'S CROWN
PARIS, May 6.—(UP)—The International Boxing Union "lifted" the crown of Maxie Baer, the world heavyweight champion, because of his failure to defend it against Pierre Charles, of Belgium.

Charles, who campaigned in the United States some time ago with only fair success, had been recognized by the union as the outstanding challenger.

The union withdrew its recognition of Baer as titleholder because of his refusal to accept Charles' challenge. Boxing experts doubted that the union's ruling would affect Baer's title defense against James J. Braddock in New York on June 13. However, they thought it might symbolize Baer's plans to fight Max Schmeling in a European title bout this summer, if Maxie defeats Braddock.

Promoter Walter Rothenberg, of Hamburg, Germany, had offered Baer a guarantee of $300,000 to meet Schmeling in London or Rome in August. Baer's manager, Anell Hoffmann, has indicated interest in the offer.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(UP)—Max Baer is still champion of the world, as far as New York state is concerned, General John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, said today when informed the International Boxing Union at Paris had vacated his title.

Fellers To Stage Amateur Fights
Promoter Tom Fellers, who will launch his weekly boxing programs at the Key arena Thursday night with 30 rounds of fighting, has announced that he will stage a "show" fight every other week—alternating with his professional shows.

Fellers has Ren Brown, of Atlanta, and Stiffie Williams, of Cartersville, booked in the 10-rounder of his opening card this week, heading a card at popular prices.

On the following Thursday night, May 16, he will stage a "show" fight at the same place and continue the arrangement through the summer. Prizes will be awarded the amateur winners each week at the ringside. Entries to the amateur bouts will be made with Frankie Allen, Jay Jarvis and Wesley Orr.

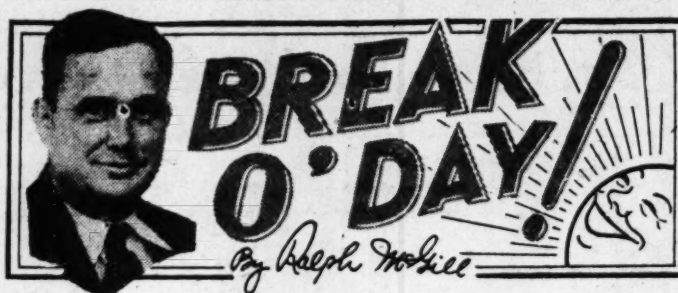

Prices for the amateur bouts will be 15 and 25 cents, for the professional, 20 to 35 cents.

Following is the card for Fellers' first show Thursday night:
Ren Brown vs. Stiffie Williams (10 rounds, main event)
Jack Hooley, Macon, vs. Chester Conklin, East Point (8 rounds, semi-final)
Kid Melton, Newman, vs. Kid Horn, Rome (6 rounds, main prize)
Hon. Lyles, Columbus, vs. Tiny Gaston, East Point (6 rounds).

Florida Favors Baseball League
ATHENS, Ga., May 6.—The University of Florida will support and enter any Southeastern college baseball league, said Ben Clemons, the "Gators" youthful baseball coach, here today.

Coach Clemons showed great enthusiasm over the proposed college circuit, which would probably include Georgia, Oglethorpe, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Mercer and Florida.

Frank Anderson, Oglethorpe baseball coach, is the author of the college baseball league idea. H. J. Stegman, University of Georgia athletic director, has signified that Georgia would enter the proposed league.

BREAK O'DAY!

It is a bit distressing to come home from the Derby and find the town enjoying Derby weather—which is to say, cold and rain. But coming home is good regardless of weather. I always like to come back to this town of ours.

It gives one an entirely unjustified pride to pick the winner of the Derby. And when that big red colt they call by the unattractive name of Omaha came bawling down the stretch, outrunning the field, I could have kissed him right on his snout.

The folks are asking about Nellie Flag, the gal hoss. There never was any real reason to figure the filly as a winner as this palladium of the public weal kept pointing out. Had Nellie Flag won it would have meant only that the field of colts was pretty bad. She had the track she wanted and the little bumping she received didn't matter a great deal. She was about to lose out to Blackbird who would have caught her in another sixteenth or less. She is not nearly the filly as was the beautiful little Mata Hari, who set the pace for near a mile last year. A filly can't carry the weight and distance. The boy horses in the race are not going to tip their hats when the going gets rough and say, "After you, my dear."

Workouts before the Derby don't mean a great deal. As one villainous-looking swine said, "There ain't no barrier in the practice runs. And there ain't no pockets or bumping. And what is more there ain't no competition. It takes a real horse to line up at the barrier, get away from there and run his race. The practice times don't mean nothing a-tall."

And I think he's right. Anyhow the workouts of Nellie Flag, Today and a few others were voided when they went to the post in the real race. Only Omaha came through.

The next test for the three-year-old field is the Preakness at a mile and three-sixteenths. This is a bit shorter than the Derby route and may prevent Omaha from winning. He likes the distance races.

The field will be much the same at the Preakness but there are some eligibles which did not enter the Derby. Black Helen, Rosemont and Gillie are three of them and Black Helen can sprint that mile and three-sixteenths. It will be by no means a cinch for Omaha who hasn't a great deal of speed.

Of interest in speaking of the Derby is the fact Colonel William Woodward, Omaha's owner, has probably the best of the two-year-olds in training this season. He is Valse, sired by Sir Gallahad III.

THE "PULL" OF THE DERBY.
"Another thing which seems to be difficult to understand is the "pull" the Derby has for crowds.

It is the horse race of the year. There are many jealousies in the horse business, as in any other business, and there are people who go slightly mad when they consider the success of the Derby. But there is no getting around it.

Colonel Matt Winn, who has seen every Derby run, is responsible. He was smart enough to build tradition into the Kentucky Derby. Every time he could get a real nobleman from England or any other country he had him over. And every two-bit lord and viscount or prince followed the real thing and the crowd followed them. Our own country's nobility was attracted and the crowd followed them. And all the while the tradition was piling up and now, after 61 years, the Kentucky Derby is the greatest horse race in this country, considering all the angles.

And then there is more than that. When the horses come into the track and the music of "My Old Kentucky Home" is heard over the loudspeakers, the crowd takes it up and sings.

There is something more on the track than merely the race. There comes, as the crowd sings, the tradition of the old South and all the great names of the past. And that helps make the race.

Put them all together and they spell the greatest race of them all. The one in old Kentucky, one of the two blue-grass states with enough mental ability to keep the horse and his sport in its native spot.

THE LURE OF BEAN SOUP.
It was after midnight following the Derby. And your correspondent, a bit hungry, was nearing his hotel.

A figure in overalls sidled up in the rain. "Mister," said he, "can you let me have a nickel for a bowl of soup?"

There were no restaurants open nearby and so your correspondent asked, "Where?"

"That pool room," said the figure in overalls, "sells swell bean soup for a nickel a bowl."

Being an ardent bean soup fan your correspondent accompanied him and we had two bowls each in the all-night pool room—with crackers—at five cents the bowl.

"The best bean soup in town," said the fox-faced youth handling the ladle.

And I think he was right. There is no bad bean soup.

THOSE CRACKERS OF OURS.
It is very welcome indeed to return and find the Crackers up there swinging for first place. And I do hope this will silence the lads who were so vicious in their letters after the first week of the season.

As I recall it the Crackers were a lot of bums and the baseball writers were all in the hire of the ball club and wouldn't tell the truth. And why didn't we turn honest and so forth and so on.

The trouble with those fellows is they never write back and admit they were wrong. The same ball club which was a lot of bums who couldn't play ball is up there despite injuries and bad breaks. I do wish just once one of those anonymous letter writers would come back and say, "Dear sir: I was wrong. I am the bum." He would be, I think, nearer the truth.

When they reached the station they were met by the respective little woman of each. "Have you," they said, "got some change to give the porter?"

HOYT, BLANTON WIN FOR BUCCS OVER BOSTON

Fine Relief Work Enables Pirates To Win in Ninth.

BOSTON, May 6.—(AP)—A three-run spurge in the ninth inning plus fine relief hurling by Waite Hoyt and Cy Blanton gave the Pittsburgh Pirates an 8-to-6 decision over the Boston Braves in the first game of their series today.

The Pirates went into the final frame trailing by one run but Larry Benton, who had pitched scoreless ball after relieving Flint Rhem at the start of the third, was unable to hold the Corsairs at bay. He passed Pinch Hitter Babe Herman to start the inning. Floyd Young ran for Herman and, when Lloyd Waner connected with a double for his fourth hit of the game, scored to third. Wally Berger made a shoe-string catch of Paul Waner's short drive to center but Young crossed the plate with the tying run.

Forced Jensen followed with a sharp single to left, putting Brother Lloyd on third. That was all for Hoyt and, Huck Betts was called to the rescue. He intentionally passed the hard-hitting Arky Vaughan. Manager Traynor grounded to Joe Coscarart but Spohrer dropped the throw at the plate as Lloyd came in with the run that put the Pirates in front. Jensen then tallied with the third run of the frame after Gus Suh's long fly.

Ralph Birkhofer and Rhem opposed each other at the start but retired after both teams had scored once in the first and four times in the second, with Bill Urbanski hitting a homer for the Braves. Hoyt and Benton settled down to a fine pitching duel with the Braves. Hoyt pitched six innings, the seventh when Urbanski and Mallon hit successive doubles to put the Braves in the lead.

Hoyt was lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth and Blanton easily held the Tribe in check, fanning two men for his twenty-ninth and thirtieth strike out of the season. Hoyt received credit for the victory while Benton was charged with the defeat.

LONDOS VICTOR AT BALL PARK

Wrestlers on Henry Weber's card at Ponce de Leon park Monday night, including Jimmy Londos, who disposed of young Karl Davis in the feature match, took their showers as they worked instead of following the usual custom and waiting until after their shower to go to the park.

After a shower, a good crowd had gathered when the program and the rain got going almost simultaneously about 8:30 o'clock, so the match was decided to go on with the show.

Sol Slagel, the poly-poly contentionist from New York, made short work of Lou Plummer, erstwhile Notre Dame athlete, who substituted for Youssef Mahmoud, the Turk, in the semi-final, which went on last. Youssef reported that he had developed the flu, and may appear here at a later date. Plummer tried the rough stuff on Sol, but didn't get very far. Five body slams finished him off in 11 minutes on the first fall, while two flying tackles and a body press put him down in 3 minutes for the second fall and match.

Roland Kirchmeyer, a newcomer here, made a favorable impression by tossing Dan O'Connor in 9 minutes of the opener with a flying body scissors neatly executed.

Davis put up a creditable fight against the champion in the first fall, punishing the Greek particularly with a series of body scissors. Unfortunately, or so the crowd thought, Karl's scissors were a little too dull for the purpose. Davis put on some of his roughhouse tactics, but seemed a bit more restrained than he usually is.

Jimmy used a body press to good advantage but it usually ended in a split hold applied by Davis. After the half-hour stage, Londos went to work on Karl's legs and had him in bad shape with leg locks. At 44 minutes Davis got in a pair of flying headlocks but wandered into a series of four thumping backdrops that cost him the match.

Jimmy hadn't forgotten about the Davis underpinning when they began on the second fall. He lost no time in getting in leg locks and footlocks. Duganlyth a few choice flying matches. Davis finally conceded the match in 12 minutes when the champion clamped on another double toe hold and bore down.

Another card was announced for Wednesday night of next week.

JOHNNY OWENS OPEN WINNER AT EAST LAKE

Beckett Tops Pro Entries in Annual Atlanta Meet.

By Roy White.

Johnny Owens, former University of Pennsylvania golfer and Capital City Club amateur, won the annual Atlanta open championship tournament with a 75-73-148 Monday afternoon on the No. 1 East Lake course. Howard Beckett, Capital City professional, won the pro prize, and Dav-Black, a former Georgia amateur champion, won Class B. Beckett carded a 79-74-153, while Black recorded an 82-75-157.

Owens finished in a driving rainstorm along with all the others except two fourstrokes who came in just as the rain was beginning to fall, but despite the heavy greens, the young Capital City star, played par golf except for two holes, where he was in trouble.

BLACK FIRST IN CLASS B.
Capital City's golfers won a majority of the prizes with Owens finishing first, Beckett first among the professionals, and Black first in Class B, the high-scoring group after the first 18 holes.

James (Kid) Brown, captain of the Tech High team, finished second among the amateurs with a 155 and Scott Hudson Jr., former city amateur champion, was third among the Simon-pures with 154.

Julius Hughes, the 1934 winner, did not participate in the tourney. Hughes has been in the past two weeks, and only Saturday returned to golf practice and was advised not to play Monday.

NEW COURSE.
Low hanging clouds during the early morning out down the entry list and less than 50 players participated. The tourney was moved to the new course due to it being in much better condition than the No. 1 layout.

Taking a lead of 75 on the morning round, Owens set the pace during the afternoon and was never headed. He started the second 18 holes with an eagle three on the first hole and went over par on the third and fourth to finish the 27 holes three over par. He shot four consecutive fours on the last nine, including a birdie on the 13th, but when the rain fell in torrents at the 15th and 16th, Owens lost his stroke to Bar.

Bill Terrell had the best nine-hole score of the day, a 34 on the first nine of the morning round.

GREAT RECOVERIES.
Dan Sage, J. D. Ribner and Dave Black made sensational recoveries on the afternoon round after bad starts in the morning. Sage cut 10 strokes from his first 18-hole score as Black cut off seven strokes to win Class B prize. Black chipped into the cup on the sixth and seventh holes on the afternoon round, and finished three under par on the last four holes of the 27 played. He was caught in the rain on the last nine, but played steadily.

By FRANK MACMILLAN.

NEW YORK, May 6.—(P)—The stock market response today to the Supreme Court's decision on the constitutionality of the National Industrial Recovery Act was a sort of diminutive pop, followed by a half-hearted rally, followed by a half-hearted decline.

The high court ruling against the carrier payment, sweeping as it was, had been awaited by many for weeks past as the thing needed to set the market winning. Actually, the news was followed by a rally in rail stocks that was the victim of profit-taking within less than a half hour.

At their best, rail stocks were ahead fractions to a point or so after the judgment was rendered, while by the afternoon the market had turned down.

Cotton, however, pursued an independent course to end off 35 to 75 cents a bale. Foreign exchanges were generally quiet, because of the London holiday, but the pound sterling advanced 3-4 of a cent, while the French franc was a shade lower.

The short-lived advance in rails in mid-afternoon had as its chief effect the stimulation of stock exchange turnover to above the 1,000,000 mark.

Today's volume was 1,025,340 shares. The Associated Press average, however, ended 3-4 of a point lower at 40 with industrial stocks and utilities sharing about equally in the average decline.

Most Wall Street economic observers thought they saw the explanation of the indifferent market response in the fact that the Supreme Court's decision was only a delay, which had taken the edge off the speculative spirit, but more important, in the poor current news on the carriers.

Connection, figures issued today by the Bureau of Railway Economics were cited, showing that Class 1 roads earned 1.69 per cent on their property investment in the first quarter of this year, compared with 2.4 per cent in the initial 1934 period.

The seasonal decline in steel, however, was not the only factor in the freight haulage, was also considered a factor. It was noted that the Steel Institute had estimated the current week's steel production at 42.2 per cent of capacity, the lowest since the final week of 1934, and compared with 43.7 a week ago.

However, reports on the lighter lines lent some encouragement to bull forces in Wall Street. Montgomery Ward revealed the best April sales in its history. This compared with the year, compared with 2.4 per cent in the initial 1934 period.

2 HURT IN STORM AT GAINESVILLE

Two Children Injured and Many Homes Damaged by Tornado.

By CHARLES SANDERS JR.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., May 6.—A storm of tornado proportions which struck here this afternoon about 4 o'clock injured two children and caused damage estimated at from $20,000 to $30,000.

Emery Sims, young white boy, was cut painfully on the arm when he was struck at his home by flying glass from the adjoining residence of W. W. Walls, on South Bradford street, which was badly damaged. Mary Chamblee, a negro child, was painfully cut on the leg when the home of her mother, Emeline Chamblee, was unroofed in a bundle of debris.

So far as known there were no fatalities and no serious injuries. The tornado struck first at the home of S. E. Holland, about two miles west of Gainesville on the Brown's Bridge road, delivering at its beginning the "freak" type of its wrath. Mrs. Holland had placed a 2-month-old baby on a bed in a rear room and had gone to close the front door when the storm hit the house. The roof was caved in, separating her from her baby. When she reached the infant the bed had been demolished and the mattress torn to shreds, but the baby lay calm and unharmed in a bundle of debris.

Although the tornado skirted the main business section of the town by three or four blocks, no one in the

Passengers Escape as Large Bus Is Burned

A number of passengers, including visitors to the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Sunday were treated to another thrill when the bus in which they were riding caught fire 48 miles south of Calhoun and was practically destroyed. central part of the city was aware of its presence until some time after it had passed. The surging winds created a roar, but this was not discernible at any distance because of the roar of the rain which fell at the same time.

The storm, which preceded by a heavy rain, then struck the southwest-ern part of town between the Southern railroad and the center of town and completely reversed a gale at the corner of Grove and Summit streets without moving or injuring the car in the garage. After unroofing houses in this section the storm jumped east to South Bradford street where the when 400 persons, most in New Holland, a mill village, were killed.

The wind missed New Holland, a mill village, struck again in Rabbit-town, where several small houses were badly damaged and the negro girl hurt and spent its force into a north-west wind, many trees being blown down.

The storm's path was about a half-mile wide and covered a distance of about two and one-half miles. An unusual feature of the tornado was that it followed the identical path of the storm which struck here a number of years ago on June 1, 1903, when 400 persons, most in New Holland, the mill village, were killed.

STATE ROTARIANS OPEN MACON MEET

Election of Officers To Feature Closing Session
Today.

MACON, Ga., May 6.—(AP)—Amid the atmosphere of old Mexico, the more than 500 delegates and visitors at the sixty-ninth district conference of Georgia Rotary clubs tonight attended a banquet as the climaxing event on the opening day of the meeting.

The next international convention will be held in Mexico this summer.

Previous attendance records were broken at noon today, officials said, when the conference registration reached a total of 525.

The annual report of E. B. McCuen, of Savannah, district governor, an address by Dean Walter Matherly, of the University of Florida, and the international message brought by Charles E. Hunt, of St. Johns, Newfoundland, director of Rotary International, were highlights of the morning business session.

McCuen said he had found all of the Rotary clubs of the state in excellent condition, with an increase of approximately 5 per cent in the state membership.

He described Rotary as "a movement which has brought a new era in the thoughts, the lives, the ideas and the ideals not only of the American people, but of peoples throughout the world."

Dean Matherly dwelt upon the necessity of greater individual productive effort, better citizenship and greater moral integrity as means of rendering public service.

"The failure of agriculture presages the possible failure of American civilization," he said.

During the afternoon the golfing Rotarians played in a tournament.
